Stoltzfus and Kauffman win Holstein show

By DIETER KRIEG

QUARRYVILLE — Nathan Stoltzfus of Gap R2 knows how to breed and exhibit top quality dairy cows. Of the 11 animals he brought to the Lancaster District Holstein Show this week, all but one was home-bred. And they all placed high enough to give him the premier breeder as well as the premier exhibitor banners.

The grand champion of the show, held here on the Solanco Fairgrounds, was shown by Robert Kauffman of Elizabethtown R1. It was the second year in a row the well-known dairyman captured that distinction, although this year it was a different animal. His "Andfar Astronaut Cinderella," last year's grand champion, was narrowly beat by "Con-Noll Leader Clara," a 4-year old owned by Stoltzfus.

The name of this year's grand champion cow is "Elaine Hermandale," an 8-year old bovine recently purchased by Kauffman. The reserve champion was Stoltzfus' "Clara," a daughter of "Maplebound Burke Kate Leader." Kauffman's

A never to be forgotten experience is how Randy Ranck, right, described his meeting with President Ford.

President Ford meets FFA President Ranck

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Pennsylvania's FFA President, Randy Ranck, met the Nation's Chief Executive — Gerald R. Ford — recently.

He was one of 80 State FFA officers from all across the country to meet with President Ford, a highlight of a week-long State FFA Presidents' Conference in the Nation's capital.

Sponsored by General Motors Corporation through the National FFA Foundation, Inc., the conference was specifically designed to help new state officers be more effective leaders by expanding their knowledge of the FFA and Nation.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ranck, Quarryville, the young and personable FFA officer told Lancaster Farming recently that his meeting with President Ford was an event he will never forget. He works at home on his parents' farm and also helps his older brother, Jay, who farms nearby. Since becoming a state officer last month, much of his time has been taken up by educational meetings.

Charles wins FFA hog show; sale strong

By DIETER KRIEG

LANCASTER — "I didn't know what a good boar was until I started working with my Dad," Cliff Charles remarked while philosophizing a bit about his winning the Lancaster County FFA Hog Show held earlier this week. "Maybe I didn't have the interest in it until it was half mine," he continued, "before it was just raising hogs, now it's quality."

Out of a total of 349 hogs brought to the show, which was held here at the Lancaster Stockyards, Charles' 200 pound ⅞ Duroc topped everything else and came up grand champion. The young man was also chosen champion breeder exhibitor. Six schools were represented at the competition and classes were split at 5-pound intervals. According to organizers of the show, this year's contest was the largest since at least 1972, reflecting the dramatic growth in the hog industry that has taken place in Lancaster County. This was the 14th such annual show to take place, an event which customarily is scheduled for the last week in July.

Charles, 20, is a graduate of Penn Manor High School and will be receiving the American Farmer Degree in Kansas City

Harvest crew was whole new world for Darrell Martin

By JOANNE SPAHR

ROHRERSTOWN — If Darrell Martin didn't know anything about harvesting wheat until two months ago, he surely does now, because last week he returned from a two-month crash course on the subject. From June through the end of July, he was a member of a small harvest crew that traveled over the Midwest, combining as it went.

For a Pennsylvania farmer, it's hard to

YOU ALWAYS HAVE A MARKET WITH PRODUCERS PRIDE

PRODUCERS PRIDE

Producers Pride is a co-operative that was begun by egg producers and is controlled by egg producers. It's an organization that works exclusively for its producer members.

When you join Producers Pride, you become part owner of the business. And since we're not a giant co-op, your voice as an owner is important.

We're small—fewer than 200 producers—but we have the volume to service a growing market. And our markets are growing, thanks to the dedicated efforts of a small hard-working and very capable staff.

We are your friends and neighbors in the egg business. We enjoy being independent, and we enjoy having a guaranteed market for our eggs.

We're looking for a few more good members. If you're looking for an organization like Producers Pride, just fill in the coupon and mail it.

Wayne BROOD 'N IRON PATENT PENDING ™ the 400-lb. iron shot

By starting to feed your sows new Wayne Brood 'N Iron 30 days before farrowing, and continuing it for two weeks afterward, you can give baby pigs all the iron they need without giving them the needle. Sows give their unborn pigs iron-rich blood, and after birth, pigs get extra iron from the sow's milk every time they hit the nipple.

This dramatic new product is available in Wayne Brood 'N Breed, a 15% protein complete feed containing Brood 'N Iron, and Brood Sow Supplement B.I. a 36% protein supplement containing Brood 'N Iron.

Research tests on Brood 'N Iron show how you can gain:

- Consistently high hemoglobin levels in baby pigs, even without iron injections.
- Two-tenths of a pound heavier birth weights
- An increase in liver storage of iron in baby pigs at birth
- Iron levels in the blood plasma are increased in both sows and pigs
- Sow's milk has increased iron content.

Let your baby pigs prove the effectiveness of Brood 'N Iron. Ask your Wayne Feeds dealer about Brood 'N Breed and Brood Sow Supplement B.I. today.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

AUG. 2-8, 1976

Languid and still are vale and hill.

Hay fever season approaching First quarter of the moon Aug 2
Average length of days for the week, 14 hours, 19 minutes
"Small" present size paper bills issued Aug 7, 1928 First steamboat arrived in St Louis Aug 2, 1817 Battle of Britain began Aug 8, 1940 Four things do not come back — the spoken word, the sped arrow, the past life, and the neglected opportunity

Ask the Old Farmer: In reading some old correspondence to my Great Aunt, I came across mention of a Christmas gift of a set of "hushers" The writer said she couldn't use them as she had recently had indoor plumbing installed, but by making some slight alterations, she had made them into tams that her daughter could wear What are "hushers?" D Y, Greenville, S C

This is just about the most outstanding example of ingenuity that we have ever heard of The "husher" was a knitted affair designed to cover the outer surface of that intimate crockery item of bedroom equipment that antedated plumbing And the old lady made them into tams! Terrific!

Home Hints Soak fresh water fish in strong salt water for a short time before cooking This will remove the muddy taste that so often accompanies fish

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Week begins partly sunny and warm, then cooling rain, week ends clear and warm

Greater New York-New Jersey: Thundershowers continue through midweek, then sunny and pleasant rest of week

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Week begins with thundershowers, then sunny and quite cool weather prevails through weekend

Use all the corn silage you cut - and make more money with Beacon Silage Pre-Serv

Nearly 2,000 farmers in the Northeast have treated more than 300,000 tons of hay this year, and they used only 2 pounds of Pre-Serv per ton to get better hay. Most of them will use Beacon Silage Pre-Serv on corn silage too, for these reasons:

It's Profitable

Pre-Serv prevents heat build-up, controls oxidation, and greatly reduces spoilage and shrinkage. So don't waste money by throwing away spoiled silage. You'll get up to 30% more feeding value — essential protein, carbohydrates and vitamins per ton when you use Beacon Silage Pre-Serv.

It's Convenient

You can harvest and treat corn silage at 60-65% moisture. Apply it wet with an applicator, or sprinkled dry over each load. You save labor because there's less lumping and bridging in the silo.

It's Economical

A ton of silage requires only ½ pound of dry Pre-Serv, or 1 pound of liquid Pre-Serv. Getting the most feed value out of your silage with Beacon Pre-Serv is part of what we call No Nonsense Feeding

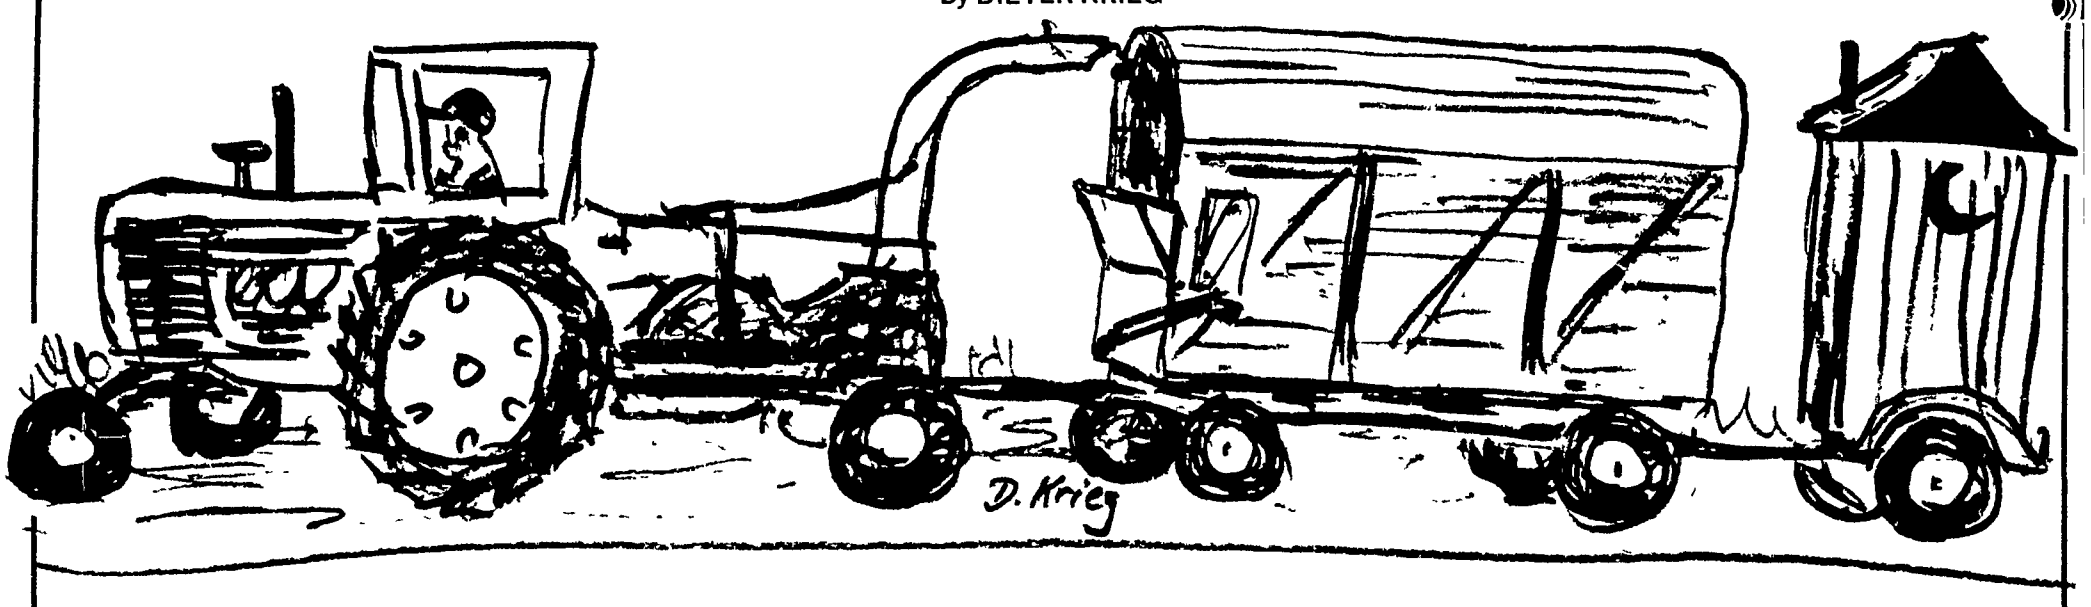
EDITORIAL COMMENTS

By DIETER KRIEG



According to the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA), farmers must provide toilet facilities within a five minute walk for their employees. Well, some farmers have fields so big or so far out in the boondocks, that a five-minute walk wouldn't be adequate. So, pictured above is a possible solution to the problem

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

HELP WANTED

Lesson for August 1, 1976

Background Scripture: Psalms 1:1-3; Jeremiah 31:31-34; Nehemiah 8:1-8; Acts 8:26-39; 2 Corinthians 3:1-3.

Devotional Reading: Psalms 119:105-112.

Do you remember that when tensions arose in the early Church between the Greek-speaking Christians and the Aramaic-speaking disciples, seven of the former were appointed to relieve the apostles of the duty of "waiting on tables?"

Among those seven were Stephen, the first Christian martyr, and Philip Stephen, of course, was martyred, not for waiting on tables in the Christian community, but for preaching a pointed sermon before the religious authorities.

Sent by the spirit

Neither is Philip remembered in the Church for waiting on tables or any other kind of administrative work in the Christian community. Appointed to relieve the Apostles of menial tasks, Stephen and Philip made their marks as preachers and teachers. In fact, these two are better remembered by the Church than many of the Apostles.

It was all carefully planned that the seven Hellenists should take over the food and money administration of the Christian community in Jerusalem. "But," says the writer of Acts, "an angel of the Lord said to Philip, 'Rise and go toward the south . . .'" (8:26). God could not be limited by the narrow planning of the Apostles.

So it often is in the churches today. We may think that preaching and teaching is limited to just a chosen few, but God cannot be limited to our narrow plans. Sometimes he chooses the most unlikely people to communicate the good news of Jesus Christ.

"Do you understand . . .?"

We can easily identify with the Ethiopian. His position in this story is quite similar to where we often find ourselves. For one thing, he is conscientious in his desire to know the will of God. He reads the scriptures under the assumption that there is something in them that can be vital to his life.

Furthermore, however, he is having great difficulty in understanding what he is reading. Despite the sincerity of his approach to the scriptures, he is baffled by much of what he reads. Sincerity doesn't seem to make them any clearer to him.

Often, that is where we find ourselves: we try to read the Bible because we are certain that it is necessary for our spiritual lives, yet often we simply don't understand what we read. The words and ideas seem alien to us. Like the Ethiopian, we ask: "About whom, pray, does the prophet say this, . . .?" (8:34). Often, we too want to exclaim: "What is this writer saying to me?"

So, the Ethiopian asks that most important question of Philip: "How can I (understand), unless some one guides me?" We can share his sentiment, because often we are in that same boat.

A man was won to Christ that day because someone who was appointed to wait on tables helped him to understand the good news of Jesus Christ. May Philip's tribe increase!

TO CLIP PASTURES

Permanent pastures do need frequent mowing and the second one is due this summer; the first one should have been made late in May or early June. By this time the growth has matured and the old grass is dry and not very palatible. By clipping every four to six weeks during the summer the weed growth will be stopped, the area will look more attractive, and the mowing will encourage the new growth of grass from the roots. Most pasture land in this part of the state is not fit for other crops, but this does not mean the land cannot be made productive; good pasture means forage for both meat and milk production. Annual applications of a complete fertilizer in the spring and meeting lime requirements every 3 to 5 years will help most areas, along with this frequent mowings during the growing season, will add to the returns from the area.

TO CONTROL APHIDS

Longer periods of hot, dry weather usually experienced during July and August mean more trouble from insects such as aphids; currently they are attacking tobacco plants, and the new growth of both flower and vegetable plants. Sprays using Sevin, Malathion, or Diazinon will usually control them quite readily. Also, we are aware of both the Japanese Beetle and the small green rootworm beetles working on plants and especially the silk of both field and sweet corn; we doubt if these will do much damage at this time and not worth the expense of spraying on large area. In the garden frequent applications of Sevin will protect corn ears. The possible harm could occur if the beetle eat off the silk before pollenation takes place.

TO MAINTAIN FISH BALANCE IN PONDS

Too many farm ponds are over-stocked with fish, and especially with bluegills. In the original stocking effort most ponds have been stocked with black bass as the main fish, and bluegills to furnish food for the bass. As a result of very rapid reproduction, the bluegills have increased more rapidly than the bass can consume and we end up with too many fish in the body of water. We urge pond owners to encourage the fishing of the bluegills as well as some of the bass. Too many fisherman go for the large bass and do not bother with the smaller bluegills; if this happens year after year, the pond gets over-populated and not any of the fish have enough food to grow or to reproduce. Remove the bluegills at every opportunity; If all of the fish are small and stunted, it may be best to drain the pond and start over again.

TO SELL STEERS AS THEY GRADE

The cattle feeding enterprise is in trouble at this time and prices are depressed. To make the situation worse, the number of cattle on feed is high and it appears that it will take some time before we see much improvement. I'm aware of many cattle now being held in the feedlot waiting for a better market; I hope this desire is realized but feeders should face the fact that it may not happen soon enough for them to move the cattle. When cattle reach the desired market grade (Choice in many cases) it is most economical to move them at that time. To keep them on feed longer means less efficiency in the use of feed, and a possible discount at marketing time because they are too fat. It is quite possible that many local feeders need to change their feeding plans by moving their cattle with less finish. Yield grades of 4 and 5 should not be the objective of producers.

USSR selling US wheat

Editor's Note: The following is reprinted from the National Farmers Union's 'Washington Newsletter', dated July 9, 1976.

The Soviet Union has made a healthy profit on its international grain transactions, according to an analysis of the USSR's annual report on foreign trade Russia has continued to export grain to its regular customers despite its need to buy grain from the U S The foreign trade reports show that in 1974, the Soviet Union purchased about 7 1 million tons of grain, principally from the U S In the same year from domestic or imported stocks, Russia exported to its normal customers a total of 7 0 million tons at an apparent profit of about $125 million

Interestingly, the Russians bought 1 3 million tons of U S wheat at 77 4 rubles per ton in 1974 The same year, the USSR sold 5.2 million tons of wheat to other countries at prices which averaged 93 2 rubles per ton, a mark-up of about 20 percent

Russia in 1974 paid 55.2 rubles per ton for 2 6 million tons of U S corn In the same year, USSR sold 782,100 tons of corn to other countries at 70.[illegible] rubles per ton, a mark-up of 2[illegible] percent

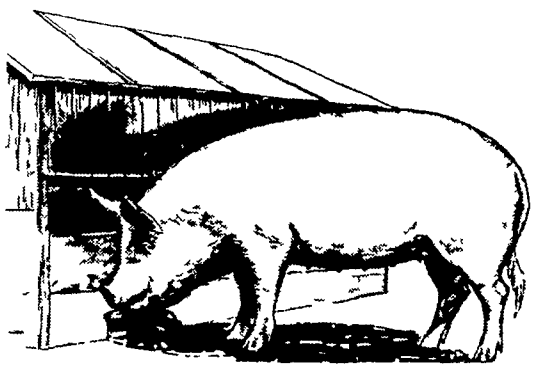
Keep your sows happy with NEW Master Mix® SOW LIMITED™



You'll be happier too.

New Sow Limited is a better way to feed gestating sows and gilts. It's designed for use in a self-feeder for confinement operations. Just fill the feeder — and sows can eat whenever they're hungry. It's a definite advantage over every-other-day feeding. Sows don't get hungry. They're not as restless. And they're easier to handle. Sow Limited can be free-choice fed because it's a "self-limiting" feed. Sows and gilts get just enough feed to keep them in top condition and there are three Sow Limited formulas to give your sows and gilts proper nutrition from conception to farrowing.

Try new Sow Limited from Master Mix. Because happier sows could mean fewer problems for you.

Nursery to halve soybean research time

ROSELAND, Ark. - The time required for soybean research can now be cut in half through use of a winter nursery to be established in Central America by the American Soybean Association Research Foundation (ASARF).

"This will be a tremendous boost to private and public soybean scientists by allowing them to do two years' work in one," said Nick Rose of Roseland, Ark., ASARF president. "It normally takes 12 to 15 years to develop a new soybean variety from scratch."

Soybean seed stock produced in the U.S. can be immediately shipped to the nursery in Belize, where another crop will be grown in the winter, Rose explained. Belize, a small nation in Central America, was chosen from five possible sites.

The winter nursery, operated by ASARF, will be open to all soybean breeders. Private breeders, through the American Seed Trade Association, have expressed considerable interest in the program, according to Rose.

"ASARF is investing $60,000 to get the winter nursery started," he said. "Research will be conducted on a fee basis for private and public soybean breeders, and we expect the nursery to be self-supporting. It should not require additional funds from ASARF."

The research foundation was formed by the American Soybean Association to provide a catalyst for soybean research.

Agriculture Research Day slated

LANDISVILLE — On Wednesday, August 4, the Southeastern Field Research Laboratory, Landisville, will be the site for an Agricultural Research Field Day.

Tours will be conducted at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. to observe the research work being done on corn, annual flowers, forages, grapes, potatoes, soybeans, and tobacco.

Road. After approximately ¼ mile turn left onto Shenk Road. Proceed to covered bridge and turn right at Auction Road.

From the North or Pa. Turnpike, take Pa. 72 toward Lancaster. Go through Manheim. One mile beyond Manheim, turn right onto Auction Road immediately after passing the Manheim Auto Auction.

The type of research work being done on these crops include a variety of hybrid testing, breeding, disease control, insect control, and weed control.

Personnel from the University will be on hand to describe the research and answer any questions. Visitors are asked to bring a lunch and picnic on the grounds.

To get to the S. E. Field Research Lab from the West, take Route 283 toward Lancaster. Get off at the Salunga exit and turn left. Immediately after crossing over Rt. 283 turn right onto Auction Road.

this Fall. He's presently working in partnership with his father, Abram, on the family's 140 acre farm at Lancaster R2. They raise and sell feeder pigs, keeping approximately 125 sows and gilts on hand at all times.

The champion exhibitor noted in an interview with Lancaster Farming that he had been showing hogs a lot during the past two years. He attributes much of his present knowledge about hogs to his experiences at home as well as on the show circuit. Since joining his father's business he's become active in buying, selling, breeding, and showing.

The champion hog, weighing 200 pounds at approximately 24 weeks of age, was sired by a boar Charles purchased from a Manheim area breeder, Mark Nestleroth. Charles noted that he purchases all of his herd boars from either state shows or well-known individuals in the Lancaster County area.

Placing second to Charles in the show, which was well attended by visitors as well as contestants, was Solanco's Daryl McMichael. On the breeder exhibitor slate, Manheim's Kevin Rohrer came up with the reserve champion trophy. Rohrer also had the on-foot carcass champion, edging out an entry shown by Cliff Charles. The following day, when the carcasses were judged on the rail, it was Mike Grube placing first, with Ronald Zimmerman, second. In third place was Robert Hess. Six animals were entered in this portion of the competition, which was held at the Stonebridge Farm Butcher Shop in Mount Joy. A requirement for entering the carcass show is that the hogs must have been bred and raised by the competitor.

In the junior fitting contest for individuals 15 years of age and under, Brian Hess of New Holland was first, followed by Bob Fox and Avery Copenhaver, both of Ephrata. In junior showmanship, it was Tony Eberly in first place, followed by Bob Fox and Mark Weiler. That made it an Ephrata sweep.

The senior fitting and showmanship contests were both won by Ephrata boys. Gary Eberly edged out Bob Hess from Penn Manor. Steve Strauss placed third. In showmanship it was another Ephrata sweep, with Steve Strauss, Rick Strauss and Ron Zimmerman placing first, second and third, respectively.

Zimmerman also won the pen-of-ten class, followed by Lamar Messer and Derrill Nolt, both of whom are from the New Holland area.

The champion and reserve champions by classes were as follows:

Lightweight champion class, 190 to 210 pounds — 1. Cliff Charles, Penn Manor; 2. Robert Hess, Penn Manor.

Middleweight champion class, 215 to 230 pounds — 1. Daryl McMichael, Solanco; 2. Robert Hess, Penn Manor.

Heavyweight champion class, 235 to 250 pounds — 1. Ron Mummau, Solanco; 2. Rick Strauss, Ephrata.

Weight class 190 pounds — 1. Kevin Rohrer, Manheim; 2. Linford Weaver, New Holland.

Weight class 195 pounds — 1. Robert Hess, Penn Manor; 2. Brian Hess, New Holland.

Weight class 200 pounds — 1. Cliff Charles, Penn Manor; 2. Tim Grube, Warwick.

Weight class 205 pounds — 1. Gary Eberly, Ephrata; 2. John Weiler, Ephrata.

Weight class 210 pounds — 1. Tony Eberly, Ephrata; 2. Ron Zimmerman, Ephrata.

Weight class 215 pounds — 1. Robert Hess, Penn Manor; 2. Gary Eberly, Ephrata.

Weight class 220 pounds — 1. Daryl McMichael, 2. Mike Grube.

Weight class 225 pounds — 1. Mike Grube, 2. Ron Zimmerman.

Weight class 230 pounds — 1. Steve Strauss, 2. Mike Rhoads.

Weight class 235 pounds — 1. Rick Strauss, 2. Brian Hess.

Weight class 240 pounds — 1. Ron Mummau, 2. Laverne Weber.

Weight class 245 pounds — 1. Steve and Jay McMichael, Penn Manor; 2. Derrill Nolt.

Weight class 250 pounds — 1. Rick Strauss, 2. Steve Todd.

Trophies for the event were donated by the Lancaster County Swine Producers Association, Pennfield Corporation, Gehman's Feed Mill, and Pork Chop Farms, New Holland R2.

A sale followed the show and netted $36,642.35. Statistics released after the sale showed that of the 349 hogs at the contest, 19 were overweight, 36 underweight, and six were entered in the carcass class. A total of 63 exhibitors showed, and 342 hogs were offered for sale. The total pounds of pork sold was 73,970, with an average price of $49.54 per hundredweight. The average weight per hog was 216 pounds.

The grand champion of the show (Charles' 7/8 Duroc) was sold to Hatfield Packing Co. of Montgomery County for $2.58 per pound. The reserve champion was bought by Ezra Martin and Co. for $1.51 per pound.

Cliff Charles with his grand champion hog. His Duroc crossbred was one of 349 hogs entered in the 14th annual Lancaster County FFA Market Hog Show and Sale, held Tuesday at the Lancaster Stockyards. He was also premier breeder exhibitor.

Corn forecast at record high, Oats lowest since 1881

Production of U.S. corn for grain is forecast at a record 6553 million bushels, 14 percent above the previous record set in 1975, Paul H. Keeney, chairman of the Berks County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee reported.

Mr. Keeney said the 1976 corn yield is estimated at 90.5 bushels per acre, also higher than recent years. The per acre yield was 86.2 bushels last year and 71.4 bushels in 1974, according to USDA's Statistical Reporting Service (SRS).

Production of oats is forecast at 499 million bushels, 24 percent less than 1975 and the lowest production since 1881. Yield is expected to average 38.2 bushels per acre, down almost 10 bushels from 1975 and 8.3 bushels below 1974.

Production of all types of wheat will be about 2040 million bushels, 4 percent less than last year's record high 2134 million bushels, but 14 percent above the 1974 crop. Winter wheat production is forecast at 1530 million bushels, 7 percent below the record 1975 crop but otherwise the largest of record and 10 percent above the 1974 crop.

Barley production will be about 311 million bushels for 1976. This is 19 percent less than the 1975 outturn but 2 percent more than the 1974 crop.

The soybean crop was in good condition nationwide by July 1, but many fields in the North Central states needed rain soon. Almost 75 percent of the nations' soybean crop was planted by the beginning of June.

Beef cattle counted

HARRISBURG - Pennsylvania cattle feeders had 62,000 cattle and calves on feed for the slaughter market on July 1, 1976, according to the Crop Reporting Service. This was two per cent more than a year earlier.

Marketing of fed cattle during the April-June quarter at 30,000 head, was down 12 per cent from the same quarter a year ago. Placements of cattle and calves on feed during the April-June quarter totaled 18,000 head, down 22 per cent from a year ago.

Expected marketings of fed cattle, if realized, during the July-September quarter at 36,000, would be nine per cent or 3,000 head more than were marketed during the same period in 1975.

Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market on July 1, 1976, in the 23 major feeding states totaled 10,036,000 head. This is 17 per cent more than a year ago. Placements of cattle and calves in the 23 states during the April-June 1976 quarter totaled 5,599,000 head, up one per cent from 1975.

Marketings of fed c for slaughter during quarter totaled 5,93 head, up 18 per cent from same quarter in 1975 pected marketings in major feeding state July-September 1976 q are estimated at 5,9 head, or 19 per cent than were marketed the same period a ye

President Ford

School, he was elected Pennsylvania State FFA President in June during the state FFA Summer Convention held at Penn State.

In brief remarks to Ranck and other FFA leaders assembled on the White House lawn, President Ford expressed his belief in the family structure and in the importance of the family farm "The family farm is important to this nation," said Ford emphasizing that "We must continue to have strong family farms" President Ford pointed out to the officers that legislation now pending in Congress would help assure the future of family farms by reducing the tax burden in passing farms from one generation to the next

The President also told the officers that although the nation is celebrating 200 years of progress, "We haven't finished yet. We must take the vision of our forefathers and complete their dreams," he said

The meeting with President Ford followed a breakfast on Capitol Hill for congressmen and senators from every state One hundred and sixty congressmen and senators attended the breakfast and many more were represented by staff members. The breakfast, now in its ninth year, is an opportunity for state officers to visit informally with their elected representatives and is a chance for congressional leaders to discuss government with young leaders of the future

In a brief address to the 380 FFA and government leaders, Eliot Estes, president of General Motors Corporation urged that the nation continue to pursue a policy of encouraging technological advancement "There are opponents of technology who want a national policy of zero technical growth," Estes said. "Certainly, we must weigh the risks and benefits of new technology, but if we are to continue to progress, we cannot afford to put arbitrary limits on technology. We cannot stand still," Estes told the congressional and FFA leaders, "it is in your hands whether we progress in our nation's third century"

'Cinder' steals rodeo show

WOODSTOWN, N.J. - Usually when you go to a rodeo, the cowboys or bucking stock is the main attraction, but at the Cowtown Rodeo Saturday night the most audience response seemed to go to Cinder!

Cinder is an Australian Blue Heeler, a type of dog used extensively in Australia to herd sheep. When the stubborn Brahma bulls refused to leave the arena, the quick and agile Cinder gently encouraged them at the heels, while the Rodeo Clowns lured them toward the open gates.

Out of thirty bull riders only five stayed on the eight seconds to score a qualified ride. Buck Howard of Woodstown, N.J. took first place with a very good mark of 67 for top money of the evening, $276.36.

Jack Meli of Farmingdale rode a bare back bronc named Moon Maid for a mark of 62 and $158.76 in cash.

In the Saddle Bronc riding event, Grant Harris of Cowtown, made $103.88 for a top mark of 65. Grant also competes in the bull riding, but after his initial ride Saturday and two re-rides he still failed to place.

The second calf roper of the evening, Bob Geer of Blackwood, N.J. took top time in that event by more than five seconds. In 13.4 seconds, Bob made $213.64, almost $16.00 per second.

Steer Wrestling was won by Marty Fink of Eagle Cliff, N.J. in 5.9 Seconds for $272.44.

Lee Natale, National finals rodeo contestant from West Patterson, N.J. won the girl's barrel race. By closely cutting the barrels, Lee won in 18.30 seconds, only fourteen hundredths of a second faster than the 18.44 made by Pat Arent. First money for the barrel race was $149.20.

Farmers Union holds youth camp

BARREE - Camp Greene Hills was the site of a convention of young members of Farmers Union. Among the Lancaster Countians attending the conference were Mary Kay, Carol, and John Longenecker, 820 Woodcrest Avenue, Lititz; Holly Keller, Lititz, R2; and Lyn and Beth Ruoss, of 100 Brubaker Road, Lititz.

In addition to sports and swimming, classes were held on the history of Farmers Union, the role of newspapers in today's world, and vocational education. Forney Longenecker, Pa. organization director, presented a slide program entitled "Standin' Proud," which outlined the history of the Farmers Union and its future goals.

Director of the camp, Myrna Kreuger, a senior at North Dakota State University, flew to Pennsylvania for this camp, which is an annual offering of the Farmers Union for young members, who come from all over the state.

Our pond was always a big attraction to not only us, but to kids from nearby homes as well. By far the largest "swimming hole" in the neighborhood, it offered many refreshing moments after having hauled hay all day or milked cows during the hot afternoons.

Nobody ever wasted any time when an opportunity for swimming came along, especially my brother, Ingo, who practically lived in the pond once the chores were done The time a swim was appreciated most was after haymaking. We'd all be soaked with sweat, and covered with dust and alfalfa debris, which was never a very comfortable state to be in But somehow it always looked a whole lot worse than what it really was. Nobody ever complained. It made swimming that much more meaningful and appreciated.

The bottom of the pond was mostly clay, which made it extremely soft, and in some places, treacherously slippery. For this reason we usually wore sneakers.

Ingo had made a nice, big raft, using an old bed from a wagon, and placing six 55-gallon drums underneath it. We hopped on to it and shoved off, using a long pole. "Shep", our dog, usually preferred to stay on shore, barking excitedly for a while, then just watching intensely, and finally going to sleep until he managed to get splashed by someone.

Getting wet was the first order of "business". The idea wasn't just to cool off, but also to rid ourselves of the itchy particles of hay. We'd swim around the raft in circles, or all over the pond — which covered approximately three-quarters of an acre. A few inner tubes were used to just float around on, or dive through. It didn't take long for the water to get muddy. It was a scene of lots of splashing and happy shouting We wouldn't really be clean by the time we were done swimming, but we'd be refreshed — and that's all that mattered to us.

The sunlight glistened on the surface of the water, as we watched from the raft — where we'd eventually end up once the initial bursts of energy had worn off. The water and air were calm. The raft hardly moved, unless we'd make it move. We could have stayed out there all day.

A farm, warm summer days, and a nice big pond is something extra special. It's something every boy should be able to grow up with.

HFAA executives re-elected; color marking restrictions lifted

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Holstein dairymen celebrated the nation's bicentennial in Philadelphia, June 29 - July 2, by exercising the democratic process during the 91st annual meeting and convention of the Holstein - Friesian Association of America.

The 224 delegates at the convention re-elected HFAA President Gordon W. Newton, owner-operator of Gorlib Farm, Tatum, S.C., for a second one-year term.

W. R. (Dick) Brooks, co-owner and manager of Paclamar Farms, Boulder, Colo., was re-elected vice-president of the national dairy breed association.

Four directors were elected to the 16-member national board. Dr. David G. Smokler, Lancaster, Texas, was re-elected to another four-year term. New members elected to the board were Max K. "Kip" Herzog, Petaluma, California, Donald V. Seipt, Easton, Pennsylvania and Donald V. Crowell, South Dayton, New York. They replaced Wesley Sawyer, Waterford, California, Donald Collins, Malone, New York and Obie Snider, Imler, Pennsylvania.

COLOR MARKING RESTRICTION LIFTED FOR BULLS

HFAA delegates also liberalized the color marking restrictions, allowing both male and female Holsteins, which are distinctly black and white or red and white to be registered. Previously, certain color marking restrictions prevented bulls from being registered. The delegate action stipulated, however, that animals whose color patterns may vary from traditional standards be labeled by having an O.C. (off-color) suffix attached to their registered names.

In other action, the dates for nominating and electing Holstein Association delegates were advanced by 110 days. In past years, balloting for delegate election has closed on about May 1. By advancing this date to early January, newly-elected delegates will have an opportunity to participate in Winter Holstein Forums, conducted on a regional basis throughout the country.

Entertainment highlight of the Philadelphia convention was an evening banquet, hosted by Joe Paterno, head football coach, Pennsylvania State University. Fred Waring and his Young Pennsylvanians were featured after the dinner.

The convention concluded July 2 with the sale of 74 head of superior breeding stock at the Sales Pavilion in Lancaster, Pennsylvania. The sale averaged $7,364.

USDA studies drought

WASHINGTON - A two-man USDA grain team is conducting a two-week investigation of drought conditions in western Europe. The team will view damage to grains, protein crops, pastures and forage, and will meet with feed compounders and other leaders to assess feed utilization and the impact on livestock and poultry industries. France, the largest agricultural producer in western Europe, appears to be most seriously affected.

When baking peach pies or cakes, there's no need to peel the peach. Just slice and add. You'll save your own time and the peaches' flavor.

USDA buying beef

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz has announced that the U. S. Department of Agriculture is starting a beef purchase program.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service will purchase ground beef for distribution to schools, institutions, and elderly feeding programs. In announcing the program, the Secretary emphasized that this is a very opportune time for USDA to enter the market and that the ground beef will be available for delivery to schools shortly after they reopen this Fall.

Fed cattle prices have been under considerable pressure for several weeks and the USDA Cattle on Feed report, released July 19, indicates that marketings will continue large for some time. The specification for ground beef provides for a wide selection of grades and wholesale cuts in preparing the product. USDA officials indicated that because of the present price and supply situation they expected processors to rely heavily on wholesale cuts from fed beef in making the ground beef.

Two separate purchase programs are being started, one for bulk ground beef and one for ground beef patties. Funds for the purchases are provided under Section 32, Public Law 74-320.

Hog cholera quarantine established

WASHINGTON, July 20 — Massachusetts, Rhode Island and three southern counties of New Hampshire - Cheshire, Hillsborough and Rockingham - were placed under state-federal hog cholera quarantines on July 20, the state animal health agencies and U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced.

Officials of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), announced that hog cholera was confirmed in a swine herd in Worcester County, Mass., on July 17. This outbreak was in one of the herds under surveillance in New England.

Portions of the three state area had been quarantined earlier this year because of a hog cholera outbreak. Hog cholera was also diagnosed earlier in New Jersey, but continued surveillance efforts have not disclosed any new hog cholera there.

APHIS officials said the area will remain under quarantine until further investigations can be carried out and state and federal officials are satisfied that the infection has been eliminated. Investigation efforts have been hampered, they said, by swine owners refusing to tell investigators about swine sales and purchases made shortly before the Worcester County outbreak was confirmed.

Current investigations are also concerned with suspected use of hog cholera vaccine in the quarantine area. Hog cholera vaccines have been banned from interstate commerce since 1969, and licenses to produce such vaccines have been withdrawn since 1971. These actions were taken in the latter stages of the hog cholera eradication program because vaccines are known to mask infections and even to cause outbreaks in some cases.

The feeding of raw or improperly cooked garbage to swine is another major concern. All recent hog cholera cases have involved herds that were fed garbage or food waste.

Interstate movement of swine fed raw garbage is sharply restricted by animal health regulation. Pigs fed uncooked pork scraps containing live virus may contract the disease.

In its acute form, hog cholera is highly infectious and usually fatal to swine. It affects no other farm animals or humans. The few outbreaks that have occurred since 1972 have involved less-apparent, chronic forms of hog cholera. If not eliminated, however, the viruses that cause chronic disease could build in virulence and further endanger the nation's entire swine industry.

Feed Creep Wean No. 3

If you're in the business of farrowing pigs, there is only one sure way to save on feed costs — right from the start. That's why Vigortone developed Creep Wean No. 3.

This highly fortified pre-mix makes it possible for you to build your own 18% pre-starter ration for about half the cost of a commercial product.

You'll be surprised how much easier it is to get baby pigs on feed fast with this freshly ground ration and how trouble free they stay right on through weaning.

Save big on Vigortone's starter, growing and finishing rations, too.

The reasons for the superior performance of Vigortone fortified corn-soy rations are simple: the pigs are assured the essential balance of amino acids and the proper levels of major minerals, trace minerals and vitamins all the way to market; and you only pay out-of-pocket for ingredients you don't grow on your own farm.

Better feed conversion means lower cost

Each Vigortone corn-soy feeding program has been designed to promote better feed conversion and lower costs. If you'd like more information, see your nearest Vigortone serviceman soon.

Funds to be appropriated

LANCASTER — For many years, the Lancaster Farm and Home Foundation has provided funds for student scholarships and other educational activities such as meetings of current public interest.

Rather than compete with other educational organizations by planning additional meetings, the Foundation is willing to participate in such programs by providing some financial assistance for speakers, awards, and other related activities for Lancaster County organizations.

The educational objectives of this program will be in accord with those of the Farm and Home Foundation. The Board of Directors has approved a fund of $1000 for educational purposes including educational awards to organizations. Applications will be evaluated by the Farm and Home Educational Committee and approved by the Board of Directors of the Farm and Home Foundation.

Each request will be considered according to the availability of funds and the following guidelines:

1. The educational nature of the use for which the request is made.
2. Other financial resources of the organization requesting the funds.
3. The number of persons expected to benefit from the assistance.

For more information, contact Howard E. Campbell, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster.

State FFA officers meet Earl Butz

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Eighty state FFA officers, including Pennsylvania's FFA President Randy Ranck of Quarryville, met with President Ford, congressmen, and U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz recently. The meetings were part of a week-long FFA State Presidents' Conference, held annually in the Nation's capital. (See related story on page 1.)

The activities began on Sunday, July 18, with registration, and the first session was opened Monday morning by Senator Robert Dole, (R. Kansas). The group discussed current agricultural legislation on the floor of the House and Senate.

Following a Tuesday morning of visits to congressmen and senators on Capitol Hill, the state presidents gathered at the U. S. Department of Agriculture for a special meeting with Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz who told the officers that as agriculture students they "represent a great industry."

Citing the importance of agriculture in foreign trade Butz said, "Agriculture with $22 billion in annual exports represents our number one source of foreign exchange, and enables this nation to have a strong balance of payments."

Butz urged the FFA state officers to pursue their leadership goals. "The main product of rural America is the leadership potential for the future," he said, challenging them to "dream, try new ideas and not be afraid to break out of a rut." He said the profit incentive is the "gas that makes this country go" and urged the students to do all in their power to keep government from discouraging advancement by passing legislation that over-regulates and discourages development.

Wednesday's activities included discussion of the operation and activities of the FFA Alumni Association and the National FFA Foundation. The FFA Alumni Association with over 12,000 annual and lifetime members has members in every state and state officers are actively involved in promoting the growth and development of alumni groups in their states.

State officers were told that more than 1500 businesses and individuals are now contributors to the FFA Foundation, Inc. Their sponsorship makes incentive awards available to FFA members at the local, state, and national levels. According to Don McDowell, executive director of the National FFA Foundation Sponsoring Committee, the Foundation will provide a record $776,000 for FFA programs in 1976.

There was great interest in the Wednesday afternoon session on "Election Year Issues," since most of the state officers have only recently reached voting age. Guest speaker John Harms, editor of the Kiplinger Business Letter told the officers that the outcome of this election will have a lasting effect on them for the rest of their lives. He urged them to become politically active for the party of their choice and gave them some insights into the Washington political scene as well as some predictions on the '76 election.

Friday, the final day of the action packed week, began with a leadership workshop conducted by the six national officers. Guest speaker Walt J. Smith of the J. I Case Company, of Racine, Wisconsin, posed the question "Would you Sign the Declaration of Independence". He pointed out that most of the signers were farmers, and others were men of wealth who had a great deal to lose as a result of their actions. At noon the officers boarded the busses for a short journey to the Arlington National Cemetery where they conducted a Wreath Placing Ceremony at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldiers. The afternoon was open for visits to many of the historic sites, scenic monuments and museums in Washington, D.C.

The week concluded at a bicentennial banquet hosted by General Motors and featuring an American buffet with foods from across the nation. The evening's program featured a bicentennial sing along and entertainment by "The Young Columbians," an enthusiastic singing group that gives American history "a whole new look and sound." The 18 voice singing group portrayed America's history from Bunker Hill in 1776 to Broadway today.

Solanco's Randy Ranck, recently elected president of the Pennsylvania FFA Association, clasps hands with USDA Secretary Earl Butz.

Farm-retail price explained

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The farmer got six cents for a head of lettuce that cost 42 cents in 1974. What did the other 36 cents pay for? A report released last month by the U.S. Department of Agriculture answers that question for lettuce and 15 other foods in the grocery basket.

SEE CFH's
"SAVINGS TIME"
SPECIAL TAGS AD
FARM EQUIPMENT SECTION
CLASSIFIED PAGE

The 36 cents is the spread or difference between farm value and retail price. Each month, USDA estimates changes in farm-to-retail price spreads for a number of foods. The report from USDA's Economic Research Service provides a basic understanding of what farm-to-retail spreads represent. It outlines the processing and marketing steps for each food and estimates how much each step contributed to the retail price in 1974. Although marketing costs have changed since 1974, the relative importance of the costs probably haven't changed greatly for most foods.

The report presents food cost components by marketing function and by cost items such as labor, packaging, or rent. The marketing functions include assembly, processing, transporting, wholesaling, and retailing. Of these, assembly of commodities from farms took the smallest share of the 1974 retail prices.

Processing costs for beef and pork, broilers, and fluid milk, which change little in form from farm to store, took less than 15 per cent of their retail prices. But processing costs made up about half of the retail price of catsup and canned tomatoes, and a third of the retail price for a loaf of bread. Labor and packaging materials represented half or more of costs for the processing function. Labor was a major component for processing of beef, pork, and broilers while packaging was more expensive than labor for such items as eggs, catsup, and frozen orange juice.

Perishability of fruits and vegetables, plus their long distances from markets, push up marketing costs for these items. Shipping charges for California lettuce and oranges averaged 10-15 per cent of retail prices, for example, while those for butter, eggs, and meats accounted for only about two per cent of retail prices.

Wholesaling costs ran five to eight per cent of retail price for most items, but reached 25 per cent for bread, because several bakeries deliver to a single foodstore, often more than once a day.

The cost of retailing - including profits - took up five to 43 per cent of the retail sales price in 1974 for the 16 items. But, except for fresh oranges, potatoes, and lettuce, supermarket costs took up less than 25 per cent of the retail price. Labor was most costly, accounting for about half of a typical foodstore's costs. Rent took another eight per cent of retailing costs.

Single copies of "Cost Components of Farm-Retail Price Spreads for Selected Foods," Agricultural Economic Report No. 343, are available free on mail request (please include your zipcode) from Publications Services, Economic Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Room 0054-South Building, Washington, D.C. 20250, or by telephone request (202-447-72550.

Broken Bit 4-H Club

This month's meeting of the Broken Bit 4-H Horse and Pony Club was held at the home of Jean and Pete Immel, Lititz.

The first order of business was collecting pictures for the club scrapbook. Then, this year's queen and princess were chosen. The queen will be Natalie Immel, and the princess will be Daphne Immel.

The group discussed the trail ride and field trips to Deep Meadow and Penn National Raceway, but nothing definite was decided.

The meeting was then adjourned and DeeDee Rice gave a demonstration on Coggins disease, Lynn Sherman gave a demonstration on Proper Hoof Care, and Leslie Sherman gave a demonstration on Saddle Seat Riding.

Oats at record low

Bumper crops seen

WASHINGTON — Record U.S. corn production is forecast by USDA's Crop Reporting Board. CORN production, seen at a record 6,553 million bushels, is 14 percent larger than the 1975 crop and 41 percent above the 1974 short crop. The 1976 yield per acre is indicated at 90.5 bushels, 4.3 bushels above 1975, but below the 1972 record yield of 97.1 bushels.

All wheat production is seen at 2,040 million bushels, four percent less than last year's record 2,130 million bushel crop, but still the second largest U.S. wheat crop ever grown. Production of winter wheat, at 1,530 million bushels, is 114 million bushels (eight percent) above last month's forecast but seven percent below 1975. Durum wheat output is expected to total 129 million bushels, (including first forecasts for Arizona and New Mexico), five percent above 1975. Production of other Spring wheat is forecast at 381 million bushels, six percent above last year.

Oats production, forecast at 499 million bushels, is 24 percent below last year and the lowest since 1881. Barley output is seen at 311 million bushels, 19 percent below 1975.

Grade Holsteins granted recognition

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Delegates to the annual convention of Holstein - Friesian Association of America recently approved a new program for identification of Holstein females not eligible for registry.

Action on the program, which has been called the most far-reaching economic stimulus within the industry in recent years, occurred at the 91st Annual Convention of the Holstein Association in Philadelphia, June 29 - July 2. The new program is effective immediately.

Charles J. Larson, executive secretary of the Holstein Association, said the identification program will potentially benefit all Holstein dairymen who breed to registered Holstein bulls.

Dairy marketing specialists have stated that grade Holstein females, properly identified by sire, are worth much more than unidentified animals. When sold for dairy production purposes, identified cattle bring more income; when kept on the farm, they add to a dairyman's net worth.

Larson said one of the basic factors which determines milk production capability and dollar value of a Holstein is her genetic background. By identifying the registered Holstein sire of a grade female, a large portion of that genetic background is established. That information, alone, has dollar value for dairy cattle buyers in this country and abroad. In addition, the contribution of additional sire identified cows on DHI test will significantly improve national genetic evaluations of dairy cattle.

Holstein dairymen can participate in the grade identification program immediately by obtaining an application form from the Holstein Association or by submitting an artificial breeding receipt, properly completed, which shows an identifying sketch of both sides of the animal. When the application form or breeding receipt is accepted by the Holstein Association, an Identification Report will be mailed to the owner of the animal. A $3.00 fee is charged for the processing and recording of applications, and also for subsequent recorded changes in ownership.

The basic elements of the grade identification program, as approved at the Holstein Convention, are as follows:

1. The program is limited to characteristically Holstein females not otherwise eligible for registry in the herd book of the Holstein - Friesian Association of America.

2. Animals offered for identification must be sired by a bull registered in the herd book of the Holstein - Friesian Association of America.

3. Animals offered for identification must be under 12 months of age (except for a period of one year, July 1, 1976 to July 1, 1977, during which no age limit will prevail).

4. Animals offered for identification must be distinctly black and white or red and white.

5. Application for grade Holstein identification will be made by the owner on an HFAA form or by submitting a fully completed A.I. breeding receipt. A fee of $3.00 must accompany each application.

6. An HFAA grade Holstein identification report will be issued for each animal. It will include the official HFAA identification number (DHIA or unique animal health eartag number); date of birth; name, which shall be limited to one word; barn or herd number; name and address of owner; registered name and number of sire; identifying sketch or photo of both sides of the animal, and dam's name and identification number, if provided by the owner.

7. Transfer procedures will require the reissue of the identification report with the name and address of the new owner. The new report will cost the same as the original report . . . $3.00.

8. Owner compliance will be under all provisions of the HFAA bylaws with additional requirements established by the HFAA board of directors.

9. The reserved prefix of a breeder will be limited in its use to the naming of registered animals.

Sire Power Sale hits high

KUTZTOWN — Bidding was very brisk and prices competitive at the 1976 Sire Power Sale held here on July 27 at the Fairgrounds. A large crowd of approximately 2000 saw a display of cow power as 63 head averaged $2293; the highest average since the sale began in 1970. Buyers from eight states took home daughters of Sire Power sires.

Topping the sale at $11,000 was a VG(87) Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation daughter consigned by Maple Lawn Farms, Inc., Fulton, Md. Sugar Creek Farms, Danville, NY, represented by Gary Janssen, went the distance to take this great young cow home.

In all, 11 animals sold for over $3,000 in a sale dominated by Elevation and Kingpin progeny. Thirty-one Elevation daughters averaged $2684 while 13 Kingpin daughters averaged $2066. Selling for $4,000 was another two year old Elevation daughter consigned by Schenning Brothers of Bel Air, Md. A young heifer calf that caught the eye of many, including buyer, Glen Morrow, was a 4 month old Kingpin daughter from the same family as the $74,000 All-American "Glamour" cow. After many bids, this Maple Lawn Farms consignment sold for $3600.

As always, the Kutztown Fairgrounds provided an ideal setting for the sale. This year's sale seemed to have more young cattle than usual, especially bred heifers. The Kingpin bred heifers selling were certainly a select group for the buyers, since they could only be found exclusively at the Sire Power Sale.

The Sire Power Sale is sponsored by Sire Power and its member cooperatives, Northeastern Breeders Association, Maryland Artificial Breeding Cooperative, and West Virginia Artificial Breeders Cooperative. Stud and office facilities are located in Tunkhannock, Pa., and Frederick, Md.

Simmentals not dual purpose here

BELTSVILLE, Md. - Simmental cattle, which are used for both beef and milk in their native Switzerland, are best used only for beef in this country, says Loren A Fulton, a dairy husbandman with the USDA's Agricultural Research Service here. Fulton conducted research to compare the milk production potential of Simmental-Holstein crossbred and purebred Holstein cows.

Twenty-six crossbred Simmental-Holstein females were compared with 49 purebred Holstein herdmates. At birth, and at 12 months of age, the Simmental crossbreds were heavier than the purebred Holsteins, but the Holsteins were bigger in heart girth and taller than the Simmental crosses at six, 12, and 18 months. However, all differences were very small. Simmental crosses showed first estrus three weeks later than the purebred Holsteins, but required fewer services to be bred. Simmental crosses were artificially inseminated with imported Brown Swiss semen; purebred Holsteins were inseminated with purebred Holstein semen.

Both groups of cows calved at an average of 24 months. Simmental crosses had more calving difficulty and more retained placentas. The Simmentals also produced about 5,000 pounds less milk and milked 30 less days than Holsteins. "The overall superiority of our Holsteins for milk production makes it impractical to use Simmentals for anything other than beef production in this country," says Fulton.

Fulton presented his research before a combined meeting of the Northeastern Section of the American Society of Animal Science, and the Northeast Division of the American Dairy Science Association here today.

SILAGE MAKE YOU

MONEY?

Since silage is superior to dry feeds in TDN per acre, the farmer can expect higher dollar yields from his silage. The increased TDN in silage means the farmer can feed more cattle with the same crop. He can produce more beef, more milk, and of course more dollars. But there are some dangers. Not all silage is the same. The farmer who wants to make sure that he makes more money with silage must make excellent silage. To insure consistent silage, he NEEDS our fermentation formulas.

Area couple attend AIC

PARADISE - Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Ranck of Paradise were one of six young farm couples sponsored by Agway Inc. to attend the 1976 American Institute of Cooperation (AIC) summer program, July 26-29, at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, at Blacksburg, Va.

More than 2,500 members, directors and executives of cooperatives, as well as youths, young farmer couples, and agricultural and educational leaders are expected to attend the institute. The theme this year was, "Cooperatives - Committed to America's Future." The Rancks operate a 125-acre farm on which they raise corn, alfalfa, wheat, and maintain a herd of 50 Holstein dairy cows.

The six couples will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Grubb of Syracuse, N.Y. Grubb is Agway's director of member relations.

The American Institute of Cooperation, supported by 3,000 farmer cooperatives, is an educational organization serving those cooperatives.

Each year, Agway sponsors a group of young farmer-members at the AIC summer programs.

Crop insurance booms

WASHINGTON - Federal crop insurance now protects $2 billion in farm crop production, Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz discloses. This is the highest protection in history, the Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz discloses. This is the highest protection in history, the Secretary notes, and a 25 percent increase over last year. The acreage and number of crops protected by federal crop insurance have risen sharply this year. An estimated 22 million acres have now been insured against production cost losses from natural hazards. Federal crop insurance now protects farmers in 1,467 counties in 39 States.

Largest hog farm has unique ideas

By DIETER KRIEG

LITTLESTOWN - Expectant and nursing sows at BDM Farms, near here, listen to music 24 hours a day. It's a part of their environment, which was specifically designed for them by BDM Farms' manager, Ron Harrison and specialists at Penn State University. The unique farrowing house, containing six rooms of 18 farrowing crates each, is thought to be the only one like it in Pennsylvania - and possibly the entire country. Another distinction the BDM hog operation has that it is the biggest in the state.

With 520 sows, and an annual production of approximately 7000 pigs, managerial procedures require that little something extra to make the operation go smoothly. The music in the farrowing house is an example. It's there to entertain both men and livestock, but more importantly, it prevents the pigs from being startled whenever someone walks in. According to herdsman Ken Kephart it works very well.

BDM's hog operation is a farrow-to-finish business, and except for the buying of herd sires, it's closed. Having approximately 3000 head on the premises at all times, Kephart saves his best gilts for breeding purposes either at BDM or for outside customers, and markets the rest of the litters as either feeder pigs or fattened hogs. Litter size averages out to around 10, and Kephart recently set a goal of farrowing 2½ litters per sow per year.

"It's a weekly process of breeding and farrowing," commented Kephart, a 1975 graduate of Penn State with a degree in animal industries. Sows and gilts are bred in special facilities within a barn which is used exclusively for initiating production. Sows are bred twice a day, Monday through Thursday, by purchased, purebred boars. Kephart and Harrison prefer the Hampshire-Yorkshire-Duroc cross and the herdsman explains simply: "It takes a crossbred pig to survive a system like this." Some sows have been in production for six or seven years and they're seldomly culled for reasons other than those relating directly to productivity.

While in their breeding crates, the sows receive little feed and water (sometimes none at all) in order to bring their lactating to a halt. Once bred they're moved to group pens for three weeks where they have access to a boar, just in case they're still open. They're fed a mixture of water and feed twice a day while they're within these pens. Kephart claims that the mixed feed (two gallons of water per four pounds of meal) results in greater uniformity of growth and development. Each pig is offered a gallon of water after the feeding.

Pregnant sows then move on to another barn where they're carefully managed until it's time to bring them to the farrowing crates. Meanwhile, the non-productive sows have been separated out and are destined for slaughter. That fate awaits approximately 20 sows per month. They're replaced by gilts which Kephart selects from the more than 100 litters born per year.

Approximately 10 days

Several modern buildings house the approximately 3000 hogs kept at BDM Farms, Littlestown. At right is the farrowing house which is split into six rooms containing 18 crates each. A unique feature is that music is played 24 hours a day to keep the sows from being startled. An elaborate ventilating system is also a part of the facility which was designed by farm manager Ron Harrison, with assistance from engineers at Penn State. Note the evaporative coolers at the side of one of the finishing houses, left.

BDM Farms is thought to be the largest hog operation in Pennsylvania. Located amidst rolling cattle country near Littlestown, Adams County, the 200-plus acre farm has an annual production of 7000 hogs, of which 60 per cent are sold as feeder pigs.

New Idea's Uni-Forage Harvester

Superchopper chops 15% more.

Same Uni interchangeability and rugged dependability in a bigger capacity forage harvester.

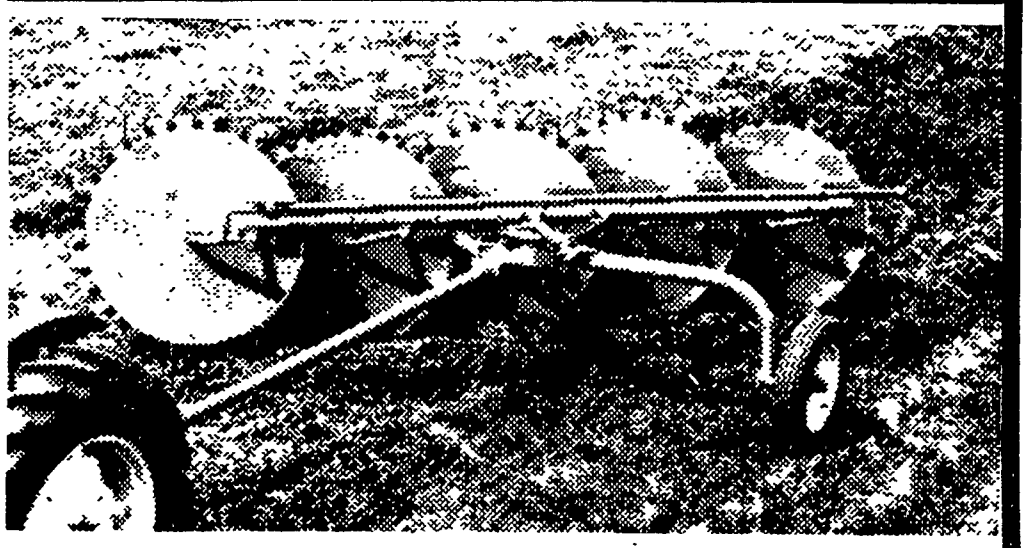
You'd better have enough forage boxes around when you use Uni Superchopper.

When there's chopping to be done, here's the self-propelled forage harvester more farmers use than any other.

Now with more reliability, more convenience, more capacity. Plus the flexibility of Uni-System's interchangeable gathering heads and harvesting units for small grain, beans and corn.

The Superchopper is a smooth operating unit that will get your job done, hour after hour, day after day.

New Idea's Wheel Rake



The quick 'n clean hay machine

Use the Avco New Idea Speed Wheel Rake over any terrain—smooth, uneven, hilly or contoured—and it gets the hay other rakes miss . . . and gets it fast. Raking wheels feature independent spring counter-balancing so teeth follow ground contour. Gentle action builds big fluffy windrows without shattering valuable leaves. You can use the basic 5-wheel rake (8'4" width) for the first cutting, then add 6th or 7th wheel for later cuttings. Stop in and see this low cost rake for yourself!

New wheat standards passed

WASHINGTON — A revision of the official U.S. grade standards for wheat was announced last month by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The changes, proposed in the April 27 Federal Register, were made to bring the standards in line with current production and marketing practices.

According to officials in USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS), the revised U.S. grade standards for wheat:

- Delete the three subclasses of Hard Red Winter Wheat, retaining only the general class designation;
- Modify inspection procedures so that the amount of heat-damaged kernels, damaged kernels (total), and foreign material will be determined on the basis of a wheat sample free from dockage and shrunken and broken kernels;
- Allow a newly developed purple-colored wheat to be designated as Unclassed Wheat, a classification not available in the previous standards;
- Specify that Red Durum Wheat will also be designated as Unclassed Wheat, because Red Durum is no longer grown commercially in the United States;
- Delete the previously used special grades Heavy Wheat and Tough Wheat;
- Require that percentages of Western White Wheat, Unclassed Wheat, and Mixed Wheat be listed in the "Remarks" section of the official inspection certificate; and
- Adjust the limit for heat-damaged kernels in the U.S. No. 1 grade from 0.1 to 0.2 per cent.

One change proposed April 27 but not adopted would have required wheat containing more than 0.1 percent ergot — a type of fungus — to be designated as Ergoty Wheat. AMS officials said further study is needed before new grade limits for ergot can be established.

The revision was published in the June 29 Federal Register. Copies can be obtained from the Grain Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Juice flow increasing

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania consumers used 60 per cent more electricity in 1975 than they did a decade earlier, the Pennsylvania Electric Association (PEA) reported recently.

Residential, commercial and industrial customers consumed 87.6 billion kilowatt-hours, compared with 53.7 billion in 1965.

PEA President Earl J. Miller said that a "conservation ethic" has helped slow the historical trend of a doubling in consumption every ten years in the decades following World War II.

"But in the next decade, we can expect major growth in electricity use — nearly 70 per cent higher than today," he added.

Miller explained that industry and consumers are shifting the energy base away from depleting oil and natural gas to electricity. He cited estimates that the 1976 consumption of electricity in Pennsylvania will be 92.7 billion kilowatt-hours, and that this will increase to 114.5 in 1980 and 147.1 in 1985.

"These are more than just projections," Miller said. "The numbers mirror the growth of industry that is necessary if we will have jobs for the next generation of Pennsylvanians."

Scientist claims public saves $2-billion with feed additives

NEW YORK, N.Y. - American consumers save more than two billion dollars annually for meat when antibiotics are fed to cattle and swine, the FDA Subcommittee on Antibiotics in Animal Feeds of the National Advisory Food and Drug Committee was told recently.

In addition, Dr. R. G. Eggert, American Cyanamid Company, told the Subcommittee that an increase of 103 million bushels of corn and about 23 million bushels of soybeans would be required to produce the same amount of meat if antibiotics were banned.

Eggert focused his presentation on antibiotics which are disease preventive as well as growth promoting.

The scientist stated that waiting until animals are clinically ill before taking action is uneconomical. If the sick animal recovers, he must first regain lost weight before he can make new gains. Much disease can be prevented by using antibiotics in the feed during periods of stress when animals are especially prone to illness.

"More than a billion dollars a year are being saved by the prophylactic use of antibiotics in the feed of poultry, swine and cattle," stressed Eggert.

He said that tetracycline antibiotics are a major factor in both the cattle feeding and hog raising businesses. He cited an experiment conducted on a commercial hog farm in Iowa which involved 600 pigs in four treatment groups. The treatment group receiving a chlortetracycline combination during the starter period had by far the lowest mortality rate. The other groups received either no antibiotics in their feed or a non-therapeutic feed additive.

Based on 1975 prices, the group receiving the antibiotics combination had an economic advantage of $10.35 per pig over the groups receiving no antibiotics. If this economic advantage of $10.35 per pig was applied across the 1975 pig crop (83.5 million), there would be a potential savings of 864 million dollars.

The Subcommittee of the FDA advisory group is reviewing the use of antibiotics at low levels to determine whether additional controls on their use is needed.

Milk-feed ratio down

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The June milk-feed price ratio, at 1.42, registered a six per cent decline from May due to a decline in milk prices and increases in feed costs. The June ratio was still 9.2 per cent above that of a year earlier as higher milk prices were partially offset by higher feed costs than a year ago.

Milk production in June is estimated to have been 10,865 million pounds - a 4.1 per cent increase over a year ago and 2.4 per cent above June, 1974. The reason for the increase is a record high average production per cow for June of 982 pounds - up 46 pounds from a year earlier and 35 pounds above June, 1974. Milk cows during June, at 11,061,000 head, were unchanged from last month but off one per cent from a year ago.

Sheep, wool production fall

HARRISBURG - The July 1976 Pennsylvania lamb crop is estimated at 96,000 head, down four per cent from a year earlier, according to the Crop Reporting Service.

The January 1, 1976, inventory of breeding ewes one year old and older totaled 91,000, compared with 94,000 a year ago. Lambing rate per 100 ewes one year old and older on hand January 1, 1976 was 105 compared with 106 for 1975.

Wool production in Pennsylvania during 1976 is estimated at 710,000 pounds, grease basis, 12 per cent less in 1975. The number of sheep and lambs shown at 100,000 head is down 15 per cent from last year. The averaged fleece weight is estimated at 7.1 pounds compared with 7.0 in 1975.

Nationally, the 1976 lamb crop is estimated at 8.9 million head, down ten per cent from 1975. The January 1, 1976 inventory of breeding ewes one year old and older at 9.3 million head is down seven per cent from a year earlier. The lambing rate per 100 ewes one year old and older on hand January 1 was 95 compared with 98 for 1975.

The U.S. wool production during 1976 is estimated at 108.4 million pounds, grease basis, and shows a ten per cent drop from last year. Number shorn at 13.4 billion head is down seven per cent from a year ago. The average fleece weight for 1976 is 8.1 pounds compared with 8.3 in 1975.

Northeastern Poultry Convention officials met recently in Springfield, Mass., to put the finishing touches on the big event to be held in the Springfield Civic Center, Aug. 24-26. Shown above (l to r) are John Ricca, a member of the Boards of both the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council (NEPPCO) and the Northeast Egg Marketing Association (NEMA), joint sponsors of the gathering; Paul Fischer, NEMA general manager; Sheldon Freedman, assistant director of the Civic Center, and Richard Stark, NEPPCO president.

Dairy seminars slated

EPHRATA - A series of regional seminars for dairy servicemen in Pennsylvania will be held at six different locations in August. The seminars are being co-sponsored by Penn State University and PennAg Industries Association, a trade organization of Pennsylvania agribusiness firms.

The programs at each place will be conducted by personnel from both Penn State and PennAg. Participating from the University will be Dr. Richard S. Adams, dairy specialist, and Dr. Larry Hutchinson, the newly appointed extension veterinarian.

There will also be a panel at each meeting, composed of local feed people, veterinarians and others who serve dairy farmers.

Some of the topics to be covered are milk production problems, mastitis control, reproductive problems, forage testing, feed programming, feeding high moisture corn and serving dairymen.

Program participatns will be charged a fee of $10 to cover the cost of lunch and literature. Each seminar will last from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on these dates and places: August 3, Host, Harrisburg; August 4, Sheraton, Williamsport; August 5, Holiday East, Scranton; August 17, Holiday Inn, Clearfield; August 18, Sheraton, Sharon West Middlesex; August 19, Mt. View Inn, Greensburg.

Land values

WASHINGTON - Farmland values increased an average of 14 percent between March 1, 1975, and Feb. 1, 1976, raising the U.S. average from $354 to $403 per acre. During the past five years, values across the Nation have doubled, and they are expected to rise eight to 10 percent during the year ending Feb. 1, 1977. This was disclosed in the summary of the Farm Real Estate Market Development.

Corn Belt and Northern Plains States led the advance in land values. The highest increases during the past year were in Iowa and Nebraska - both up 26 percent. Land values increased least in the Far West, Northeast, and Southeast.

The total value of U.S. farm real estate as of Feb. 1, was $421 billion up $51 billion since March 1975. Farm buildings accounted for $72 billion of the total. The average value of an operating unit increased 15 percent to $165,000.

Chianina Field Day gives chance to learn breed

WRIGHTSVILLE - The first Chianina Field Day to be held in the Northeastern Region, sponsored by the regional section of the American Chianina Association, will be held at Dutchman Cattle Breeding Systems, Lauxmont Farms, on Saturday, August 21. Lauxmont Farms are located in York County, approximately two miles South of Wrightsville on Route 624.

The highlights of the day will be the exhibition and showing of project steers and heifers by junior club members. There will be cash prizes for the steers and heifer classes. Club members are invited to bring their steers and heifers to Lauxmont Farms on the preceeding Friday, in preparation for showing. There will be a beef bar-b-que, featuring Chianina beef, on Saturday, with tours of the farm operations. In addition to the 200-cow Chianina herd, Dutchman has a 400-cow Hereford herd and over 300 acres of corn.

There will be an exhibition of Chianina cattle to be sold at the November 5th sale at Lauxmont Farms in conjunction with the Eastern National Livestock Exhibition. Sale cattle will be selected from cattle brought to Lauxmont Farms for the August 21st Field Day.

The Dutchman Cattle Breeding System Program is based primarily on a herd of 200 one-half-blood Chianina females. Visitors will be able to see Chianina recorded cattle which have been upgraded from several different base breeds. Most of the heifers have three-fourths Chianina calves by side and visitors will be able to appraise the growth and quality of this breed.

On the sire's side, the Dutchman program is keyed to using Lombard, their purebred imported Lombard is three years of age, and weighs 2850 pounds. He is the only purebred Chianina bull in the Northeastern or New England states.

According to Ron Kohr, President of Dutchman Cattle Breeding Systems, they are looking forward to the Field Day, because there are still many cattle producers and farmers who are not familiar with the Chianina breed. "We have really been impressed with the growth rate, structural soundness, and maternal ability of the Chianina in our program," stated Kohr.

Additional information concerning the Field Day can be obtained from Mr. Jim Glass, 230 Harrison Avenue, Glenside, Pa. 19038, the president of the NE Regional Chianina Association.

253 million eggs laid

HARRISBURG - Pennsylvania layers produced 253 million eggs during June, according to the Crop Reporting Service. This figure is down five per cent from both the previous month and a year earlier.

The June average of 12.6 million layers was approximately the same as the previous month, but down four per cent from a year ago.

Egg production per 100 layers during June totaled 2,011 eggs, down four per cent from the previous month and two per cent below a year earlier.

The nation's laying flocks produced 5.3 billion eggs during June, three per cent below the previous month, but one per cent above June 1975. Layers on hand during June averaged 269 million, down one per cent from a year earlier. The average rate of lay during the month was up one percent from a year earlier.

Harvest crew

Again the nomadic life of a harvest crew, and for Darrell, who wasn't even raised on a farm, it was almost a total shot in the dark.

Looking back, he now says, "It was a real learning experience." But, when he says that statement, he flashes a knowing smile which tells the listener that for every good time he remembers there was a hard time to be contended with.

Probably, for Darrell, the greatest aspect of the whole experience was the adventure connected with it. He had heard about harvesting crews several years before when an older neighbor went out West to try it, and had flirted with the idea ever since.

"It was something I always wanted to do," he contends, "but, I never could before, because they always left before school was out."

However, once he graduated from Lancaster Mennonite High School last year, there was nothing holding him back, so one day he and a friend, Phil Newcomer, decided they were going to do it.

"So," explains Darrell, "we got the address from Herb (the friend who had done it four years before) and we started writing around December."

It took a while for "the boss," M. J. Heinrich, to write back, however, and the final verification had to be done over the phone in the Spring of this year. Darrell chalks the slowness up to the relaxed western pace, which, he stresses, only lasts until the harvesters hit the fields. From that time on, it is non-stop all the way.

The operation Darrell and his friend, Phil, were connected with was based in Corn, Oklahoma. According to Darrell, the town is exactly as it sounds like it would be. The two biggest things it has going for it are a grain elevator and a gas co-op. Of course, that's nothing to sneeze at when you consider the importance of these two establishments to a town in a grain region. But, besides the elevator and the co-op, there is only a church, a school, two implement dealers, and approximately 500 people.

The harvest crew, itself, consisted of two combines, two combine drivers, two trucks, and one truck driver. Then, of course, there was "the boss" and his wife who had no specific jobs, but they had the key responsibility of keeping everything organized and running smoothly, which was as much a full time job as any other.

For living quarters, the crew slept in a mobile home, which is called a "trailer house" out in Oklahoma. This trailer house was towed behind a truck to every job, so the crew was always assured a definite place to sleep at nights.

According to Darrell, when harvest season comes, it stays, and there is no slowing down until all the combining is done. The crew's daily schedule was rigorous and fairly inflexible.

They got up at 6:30 every morning, and invariably ate a breakfast of cereal, eggs and bacon, and were on the fields by 7:30 a.m. Some jobs took only a few minutes to get to, while others were as far as 25 to 30 miles away.

Of course, the wheat wasn't ready to be combined at that time of the morning, so everybody pitched in and worked on the implements. Since they ran the combines "full out" all day and then shut down late at night only to let them sit, there was always a lot of greasing and minor repair

AGRI-KING
KEY TO PROFIT

IT'S TIME AGAIN TO START THINKING ABOUT GETTING THE MOST PROFIT FROM YOUR CORN SILAGE.

Don't let hot or sour corn silage rob you of digestible protein, energy, vitamins and palatability.

This ? or This ?
(20 x 60)
Approximate protein and energy value of 440 tons corn silage testing 50% moisture equals $6,437.00
(20 x 60)
Approximate protein and energy value of 500 tons corn silage testing 70% moisture equals $10,575 00.
Approximate protein and energy value of one acre corn silage testing 50% moisture and yielding 16 4 tons per acre equals $240.00.
Approximate protein and energy value of one acre corn silage testing 70% moisture and yielding 20 tons per acre equals $423 00
Approximate protein and energy value of 4 1 ton load of corn silage testing 50% moisture equals $60.00
Approximate protein and energy value of a 5 ton load of corn silage testing 70% moisture equals $105 00

The above examples show approximate difference in the value of low moisture and high moisture corn silage.

Values reflect difference in yield per acre, silo capacity, net energy, digestible protein and animal performance as reflected by university research

Energy and protein values are based on soybean meal at $200 00 per ton and corn at $1 50 per bushel.

Grow the protein and energy you need, and save the energy and protein you grow!

Filipinos observing U.S. farms

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Eighty-six young Philippine farmers arrived in the United States July 3 to begin a two-year work-study program in modern agricultural techniques designed to help increase world food production.

They are the third group of Filipinos to participate in the Agricultural Training Program conducted by the National 4-H Foundation in behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service and in cooperation with the Philippine Agricultural Training Council and the National 4-H Club Council of the Philippines. One hundred and one trainees are currently living and working on American farms specializing in areas of agricultural concern to the Philippines.

On July 9 participants met their host farmers at regional locations for a reception and host-trainee orientations.

The trainees, who include five women, range in age from 18-30 years old. They will be assigned to farms specializing in poultry, swine, vegetables, ornamental horticulture, beef and dairy — in accordance with individual interests and the needs of their country. Their program will include periodic in-service seminars and three months of technical training at universities following host farm experiences.

The program is self financing. Trainees' wages, paid by host farmers to the National 4-H Foundation, are used to cover transportation, orientation and general living expenses. A surplus is given to the trainees at the end of their program to provide working capital when they return home.

The Agricultural Training Program has already provided practical experience for more than 1100 young farmers from Japan, the Republic of China and Korea. Currently, 99 Polish men and women are living and working on American farms. Their Agricultural Training Program is being sponsored in part by Massey-Ferguson Inc., Des Moines, Iowa, a leading manufacturer of farm machinery and the largest company in Massey-Ferguson Limited's worldwide group of companies.

prior to the time they're due, sows move into the well insulated and ventilated farrowing house. Built three years ago, the six-room facility is like a giant lineup of incubators. Each room contains 18 crates, giving the farrowing house a total capacity for 108 sows at a time. But one of the rooms is always empty as their use is rotated for complete cleaning and disinfection. A new room is emptied each week.

Variable speed fans, along with insulation and a subfloor heating system maintain an even temperature of about 70 degrees 365 days a year. Strategically located ducts insure that the air flow is complete and non-drafting. Odors from the barn and underlying manure pits are drawn out along with stale air. Special louvres and doors can be opened to draw air from either outside or the interior walkways. The subfloor heating tubes are only under the areas used by baby pigs. For supplementary heat, Kephart has catalytic gas heaters available.

Until recently, Kephart allowed piglets to stay with their mothers for as long as six weeks. But a period of experimentation has convinced him that just four and even three weeks is sufficient. The goal is to have sows produce an average of 2½ litters per year. He reports no significant problems so far.

Once removed from the farrowing crates, the young pigs are raised outside until they reach a weight of approximately 60 pounds. Kephart explained that they're off to a better start that way, compared to bringing them straight to one of the feeder houses.

The feeder houses, which are cooled down 10 degrees with evaporative coolers, are separated into two divisions - one area for those animals weighing between 60 and 150 pounds, the other for putting on the last 60 to 70 pounds until a market weight of 210 to 230 pounds has been reached. Aside from the variation in size of the animals, the main reason for the separation of the pigs is the difference in feed. The pre-finish feed is a meal containing 13 to 14 per cent protein, while the final finishing feed tests 11 to 12 per cent protein. In either case, feed is moved automatically and the pigs are allowed to eat as much as they want. They reach their marketng weight at approximately five to six months of age.

In assessing the operation, Kephart cites no major problems and he notes that once the pigs are weaned, the period of maximum stress is over. It's a down-hill battle when pigs come out of the crate, he said.

As in most hog operations, manure is handled through pits and liquid manure spreaders. BDM has slatted floors and pits in each of its barns. The material is removed and hauled in a 3200-gallon spreader powered by a 4020 John Deere. Loading time is just four minutes, but Kephart is quick to add that it takes a six-inch pipe and a 1000-rpm shaft to do it.

Market hogs leaving BDM Farms are sold through the Pennsylvania Farmers Association's grade and yield program.

Being just a year out of college, Kephart was asked to sum up his experiences and observations since becoming herdsman. "I feel that everything I know now I learned after I came here," he responded.

Four additions put on Paraquat labeling

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. - Four new additions to ORTHO Paraquat CLR labeling have been announced by Chevron Chemical Company. The additions are: Paraquat on potatoes after planting as a preemergence treatment, ground application only and the addition of aerial application for North Dakota only; Paraquat as a tank mix with AATREX 80W and PRINCEP 80W for corn; Paraquat as a postemergence directed spray used either alone or in combination with Atrazine as a tank mix on corn; and labeling updated or amended from previous labeling. Paraquat as a soybean harvest aid on soybeans when plants are mature with beans fully developed and at least ½ of the leaves have dropped, and leaves left on plants are turning yellow.

Affluence explained

WASHINGTON — There's a direct relationship between a nation's agricultural productivity and its affluence. In other words, the less time people spend producing food, the more time they have to acquire the other things that ordinarily measure wealth and affluence.

The United States is an excellent example of this relationship at work. Only four percent of Americans are engaged in agriculture, leaving 96 percent free to produce something else. In India, 68 percent of the people are in agriculture; in Brazil, 53 percent.

This relationship is explained in detail in "The Secret of Affluence," a USDA Office of Communication publication prepared for the USDA Pavillion at the Kennedy Space Center, Cape Canaveral, Fla., May 30 through Sept. 6.

work to be done like putting in new bearings and belts, before the implements were ready to go again the following day.

Then at around 8:30 or 9:00, or as soon as the gas co-ops were open, Darrell went into town for the diesel fuel, which was then stored in an electric pump housed on the back of the pickup truck. This pump was then taken to the field and used all day to gas the combines. Darrell maintains, however, that even though the combines ran consistently from 9:30 or 10:00 in the morning until 11:30 at night, they only needed to be gassed once. Nevertheless, the pump was on the truck, just in case.

Noon was always lunch time for the crew. Mrs. Heinrich would bring out the meal and "the boss" would relieve each man, one at a time, until they had all eaten. During this change of drivers, the combines never stopped — one man jumped out while the other man jumped in.

Supper came at 6:00 or 6:30, and the whole routine of relieving each other was repeated. These were the only two breaks the crew got all day until they shut down at about 11 or 11:30 p.m.

At 11 o'clock or so, they would fill one or both trucks with grain, tarp them, and let them sit in the fields, to be emptied in the morning at the local elevator or the client's bins.

Darrell's job on the crew was not as a combiner, however. Instead he was the one truck driver for the two trucks. This facet of the job was not new to him, because he had driven truck in a job he had held previous to the harvest crew.

However, there was one thing he had to get used to, and that was the trucks, themselves. The grain trucks are 10 wheelers with tandem axles, which hold about 425 to 500 bushels of wheat. This was average, or a little more than average, for the West.

Darrell's job was to get the grain to the elevator or bin as fast as possible.

"The boss told me to go as fast as I thought I could when the trucks were full, but when they were empty, I was to fly back," he explains. "It was nothing out there to roll a truck," he states matter-of-factly.

When he would get back to the field, with an empty truck, the other load was usually ¾ full, so he would crawl up into the wheat and level it off. The combiners then always tried to heap the truck as full as possible. After this, it was tarped for transport to the elevator.

Since Darrell drove truck and his friend drove combine, they compared the two jobs frequently. Each had advantages and disadvantages. The worst disadvantage to driving the truck was that it wasn't air-conditioned, whereas the combines were.

"I'd be out working on a truck and Phil would cruise past in his air-conditioned cab, wave, and grin at me," Darrell remembers. "And, it was hot. One day it was 110 degrees when we started, and the highest it ever got was about 114 degrees," he continues.

But, to balance the bad parts of his trucker's job, he also got to meet many, many interesting people at the grain elevators.

Usually, the crew got to bed at 12:00 or 12:30 a.m., and slept for six hours, only to get up and repeat the same routine day after day. There was one time a week they did take a break, however, and that was on Sunday for church.

In the six weeks Darrell was working the harvest, the crew made the rounds in Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska.

To get between each job, the crew would form a small convoy. "The boss" would head it up in the pickup truck with the tools and diesel fuel. Behind the pickup, he would also pull the mobile home that the crew slept in. Next would come a grain truck pulling a combine on a three-foot-high trailer. After him, would come another truck and combine, and the boss's wife would bring up the rear in the family car.

Although the busy schedule the crew followed left little or no time for sight-seeing, Darrell did get to see some places on the crew's travels to and from jobs. Nebraska, he noted, is hillier than Oklahoma or Kansas, and is polluted with mosquitoes. Also, he found out that the circle irrigation carried on in many areas is less popular than pipeline irrigation. Farmers with circle irrigation said that it takes much more labor to keep this watering system going because all the wheels have to be synchronized in order for the system to run properly. There is a motor on each wheel that has to be fixed if it gets out of alignment. Otherwise, the whole system shuts down. So, actually, while this type of irrigation seems more economical, in the long run it isn't.

The major difference Darrell noticed between Lancaster County and the Mid-west was that there is a pervasive "bigness" that affects everything in the westerner's way of life. They are slower because of it, all their equipment is bigger and newer (the average combine header is 24 foot) because of it, and they are friendlier because of it.

"When you see anybody out there, you just wave," laughs Darrell. "You do it because you're just so glad to see somebody."

Darrell says that, overall, it was an experience worth having, and now that he knows all about the different kinds of crews, he would do it again, if he could join another crew. The normal sized crew has three combines, more people, and works different grain harvests. Some crews work all year round, harvesting corn, maize, wheat, soybeans, etc. The average pay for a combiner is $25 a day.

Darrell is also glad for the experience because it helps him in his conversations with his farming relatives and friends.

"Now, I know terminology, and moisture contents, and other things like that," he says. "I, also, am up on markets, because listening for the wheat market was essential out there."

The experience hasn't made Darrell want to go into farming, however. Now he wants to fulfill another ambition he has always had — he'll be going to Millersville State College in the Fall for biology.

Even though he hasn't decided to go into farming, the experience has made him glad to get back home to a familiar environment, which is working at the market business his father and uncle own, which is C. E. Martin Sons, in Lancaster. At present, Darrell lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin, 32 Rohrerstown Road, Lancaster

Darrell Martin rarely parted with the straw cowboy hat he is wearing during his six weeks on the harvest crew. The straw hat provided good protection from the sun and dust.

Red Rose DAIRY FEEDS

'Tinkering around' put her in demand

By SALLY BAIR
Feature Writer

Mrs. Paul R. Shertzer is a successful career woman. She does tole painting and runs her business enterprise in a room of the farm house she shares with her husband at Millersville R1.

That in itself is not so unusual, except that Ruth Shertzer is 62 years of age and began her career just 6½ years ago.

Mrs. Shertzer's eyes twinkle and her face lights up with a smile as she talks about her work. She said, "I always had a desire, and I was always tinkering around." Her first serious interest in crafts came when she directed crafts for the residents of Village Vista Nursing Home.

When she decided she was going to learn to do tole painting she took a correspondence course from the Decorative Arts Institute in New York. She said the course was very helpful, but even so, "I was going to do it just for myself."

As frequently happens when one becomes interested in crafts, "it accumulated." So Mrs. Shertzer found an outlet at Plain and Fancy Farm Gift Shop and took a "truck load" there. Soon, people began writing down her signature from her pieces of tinware and started searching her out.

Very quickly, Mrs. Shertzer realized she couldn't keep up with the demand for the gift shop and the demand from customers at her home. So she concentrated on supplying people who came to her. For a long time customers brought their tinware to her, selected patterns and had her paint them.

Since she now has 50 orders in 1978 plus the work she does to supply the shop, Mrs. Shertzer has stopped taking tinware from customers. Milk cans are the one exception, but she asks the customers to clean them up themselves.

Mrs. Shertzer prefers working on old tinware, but explains, "Tinware is getting scarce around here. I buy in antique shops or flea markets, because you can spend all day at a sale and still not get anything." She recently concluded a trip to New England where she was able to purchase a supply of tinware to keep her work going.

She also works on agate and aluminum, and just three weeks ago began doing some of her tole designs on wood. These have been selling briskly she reported, and she'll probably continue painting on wood reproductions.

Painting old tinware requires a lot of work. "It sure isn't easy," Mrs. Shertzer says emphatically. "It is often rusty and greasy." She feels fortunate in having a kind of hot water heater which was used in milk houses at one time. She puts the utensils in this heater with a solution which does wonders in making them come out clean.

Once they are clean and acceptable, Mrs. Shertzer says she spray paints them for "a nice smooth finish." Next comes antiquing which must be carefully applied with a cheesecloth, and when that dries she proceeds to paint on the design with oil paints. She cites this as one reason for the high quality of her work - some tole painting is done with water colors.

"With oil paints I can do the shading I want," she explained.

A coat of special varnish is the last step. The paint is barely dry on some items before they are sold to eager customers.

Some designs are traced on, and some are done free hand. Mrs. Shertzer has two huge stacks of boxes containing the wide variety of patterns from which she or her customers choose

Mrs. Shertzer goes about her work in a businesslike fashion, and often is working at her shop by seven.

She said, "I have my beds made, my breakfast eaten, and sometimes dinner is in the crock pot!"

Sometimes, too, she works until 10:00 at night. She said she is trying to cut out the night work, and takes Thursdays as her day off. On Fridays, she tries to clean but will accommodate customers if necessary. All of her work is by appointment.

Despite her demanding schedule, she acknowledges, "To me it is relaxing. I really enjoy it. I would be lost without my work." But she adds, "I don't enjoy being pushed." For this reason she is looking forward to the day when she's caught up on orders and "can paint things just for the shop."

She credits her husband Paul with a lot of support and help.

"I couldn't do it without him," she discloses.

Paul works at Millersville State College, but helps pick and freeze the vegetables. Mrs. Shertzer says she usually does the blanching.

Obviously little time is left over for other interests, but she is a member of the senior sewing circle of Millersville Mennonite Church. Another social outlet is a group of friends called the "Jolly Stitchers" who have been gathering since they were 16 years old.

"We still get together," Mrs Shertzer says, "although, not monthly like we used to "

Mrs Shertzer grew up on a farm on the Marietta Pike west of Lancaster and also lived on one during her early years of marriage. She and her husband stood at Southern Market with freshly dressed poultry and fresh vegetables.

Her one hobby is growing plants, and she has one corner of her living room filled with a lush arrangement of greenery

She originally did all her painting upstairs at their farm house, but when milk cans became the rage, she began to

Mrs. Ruth Shertzer poses by the signpost outside her shop at her home at Millersville R1.

This tray is traditional in that it is painted with a black background. The birds and gold border trim all help to show what the original tole painting looked like.

A small work area just off the showroom is where Mrs. Shertzer spends many long hours during the day producing the intricate designs which characterize tole painting.

Homestead Notes

"I paint them, however, they bring them in," she explains.

What brings people to the winding Walnut Hill Road to Mrs. Shertzer's doorstep? Once you step inside her shop and see the shelves and tables covered with gaily painted tinware, it is easy to see the answer. There are muffin pans, tea caddies, tea kettles, apple pans, scoops, trays, lamps, and assorted other items which are transformed with the festive designs.

Tole is an eighteenth century craft, and is certainly an "old art " Mrs Shertzer points out that almost all of the old art was done with black as the predominant background color She said, "It is hard to convince people that black is an old color. I would like to do more in black " But instead, there are muted greens, reds, and golds in abundance.

She said flowers were one traditional design, especially the "tomato" pattern Birds were also used, as well as fruits, and border painting was traditional Mrs. Shertzer does not do a lot of the strictly Pennsylvania Dutch design because she does not have much demand for it.

According to her, a lot of her patterns are inspired from books. She has borrowed some from the Millersville College Library and has purchased some at book sales. She said she also likes to visit craft fairs where she seeks out tole painting, and often finds ideas for herself "I make up a lot of my own patterns," she said.

My Thoughts and Welcome to Them

(With apologies to James Thurber)

Dress revues aren't like I remember them

By JOANNE SPAHR

"And, now, coming onto the stage we have Joanne Spahr sporting a wool skirt with "

Suddenly, the acid hit my stomach lining and my legs felt like a Mr Gummbey toy as I realized it was my turn to go up on stage in front of that enormous crowd of at least 1000 spectators which had assembled for the express purpose of watching me flub up my 4-H sewing roundup dress revue In a few seconds I would be modeling my new putrid pink wool skirt with the acetate lining that kept slipping around my hips when I walked, and that was accented by a knit blouse that my mother said made me look nice, but that I thought made me look like a box

For at least a half hour I had stood fidgeting in the line-up of girls waiting their turns to go on stage, and now it was time for my debut.

As I blindly made my way to the three steps that led to the stage in the center of the room, I quickly thought over the tips that they had given us at practice Rule number one — don't trip up the stairs. Lift your feet high in the air and at least make a graceful entrance onto the scene. Rule two — walk from the stairs to one corner of the stage, then turn on the heel of one foot and the ball of the other, and head for the other side of the stage to show the rest of the audience your pride and joy Rule three — always show the part of the garment which is being spoken about by pointing to it as the narrator talks Rule four — keep your back straight, your bustline out, your stomach in, and a smile on your face

Okay, I was ready, and the stairs were fast approaching. Rule one — lift your legs high .. Ah ..

have difficulty lugging them up the stairs. So, she and her husband decided to remodel a room of the house and open a shop, although she thought "nobody would ever come all the way out here." She said her father, Jacob Mellinger, encouraged her, and even helped name the shop.

People quickly began wending their way to her. She now has visitors from Maine, Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Michigan and many, many more states. She believes people seek her out because they feel gift shops don't have enough variety.

"Friends bring friends, or they take a friend something from the shop and the next year the friend takes a vacation and ends up here," she explains. "My customers are all very considerate," she adds.

She also gets a lot of local people. And, although she has been asked to do so "a hundred and one times", she does not enter local craft shows.

"I'm afraid it will bring me more work," reveals the busy, busy craftsman.

"There aren't many tole painters," Mrs. Shertzer relates. "I would really encourage others to become interested." With a laugh she adds, "There's obviously not enough painters to take care of everyone."

She said she tries to anticipate the demand, and tries to "have a little of everything" in the shop. Some people prefer reproduction items because they are not quite so expensive, so she has factories in New York and Massachusetts which supply her with new tinware. She said she can usually estimate how many pieces she will need in a year, but when her supply of old tinware gets low there's nothing to do but take a shopping trip and stock up on some more tinware.

And while most people are not yet thinking of Christmas gifts, Mrs. Shertzer will begin painting Christmas items on August 1. She doesn't show any of her Christmas items until the day after Thanksgiving because she said, "I like to have a few surprises."

Mrs. Shertzer is modest about her accomplishments, but enthusiastic about her work. The wide range of flowers, fruit, and other brightly colored patterns found on the tinware in her shop are a tribute to her skill and her energy.

When using a whole clove of garlic in soup, stew or sauce, stick a toothpick through it. This helps to avoid losing the garlic while it is cooking with the foods.

Dress revues

was I going to get them high enough? Would I make it to the top, or would I fall on my face? Yes, there I was, safe and sound in front of everybody, and I hadn't even tripped

Now, for the other side of the stage. The audience was a blue as I tried to make my way there with my perspiring feet slipping and sliding in my plastic sandals. I was fast losing my balance as my feet first rammed up against the toes, then slipped way back against the heels

Smile Oh, geez, I'd forgotten to take the chewing gum out of my mouth and was chewing like a cow Quick, swallow it

What was that about a handpicked zipper? Hurry, find the handpicked zipper. Where was it? It used to be by my right arm, now where had it slipped to? Oh oh. I was supposed to be on the other side of the stage. Oh boy, better run over there fast. Don't trip, hold your chest out, your stomach in, and keep a smile on your face.

"Now, Karen Ebersole will show her plaid jumper " said the announcer

Karen Ebersole? Oh, geez, I had to get off stage, but I was on the completely wrong end of the platform to exit in the right direction Hurry, better get off stage before Karen pushes me off

I look for the other set of stairs — there they were, now to get to them. My feet slid again as I walked, then the strap on my sandals broke

How was I going to get out of this one gracefully? Drag my foot! That was the only answer Drag my foot and hope nobody would notice So, I dragged my foot halfway across the platform Now the stairs How was I going to get down them with a shoe that threatened to fall off? Rolling down the stairs would be the best answer, but I couldn't do that Okay, I figured it out I'd slide my whole foot to the edge of the platform and drop my shoe and foot, hopefully, straight down, and maybe that way my sandal wouldn't fall off.

Down one step successfully Two more to go Painfully, I made my exit

Suddenly, there was someone right behind me. Karen was waiting to get off stage! Aw nuts Move more to the right and let her pass There she went, waltzing out ahead of me in all her glory, while I slipped and slid and dragged myself off to the side

Whew! It was over Wonder what kind of ribbon I got? Blue, red, or white? Wonder if anybody noticed that my strap had ripped.

Tension, tension.

xxx

That was at least 10 years ago, but that's how I remember 4-H garment shows, though I never made it as far as county dress revue. The modeling was always tense, but exciting with a crowd of thousands to watch my every move Of course, there were really never more than 30 loving mothers to emphatize with and smile at the girls and the great work they'd done on their outfits.

As I sat and watched the beautiful outfits go by at county dress revue last week, I couldn't help but feel a wave of the old emotions go over me And, as I watched some of the girls' faces, I realized that they were probably experiencing the age old feeling of stage fright that goes along with modeling

But, they all did really well, and if they felt all the emotions I had, they certainly did an excellent job of keeping them under control

Buy Gauze Fabrics Wisely

Gaily embroidered gauze blouses may draw your attention at the clothing store. But before you invest in any gauze product — U.S. or imported — I caution you to consider the item carefully.

All-cotton imports offer great variation in design and decoration. Minor imperfections in the fabric may add interesting texture. But these garments often are less stable than synthetic-cotton blends. They may stretch or shrink in the wash. Often, they have to be washed by hand, hung to dry, or ironed while damp.

Polyester-and-cotton can resemble the all-cotton gauze, but it's more stable when laundered. The fabric can usually be machine washed and dried. But these garments are often less decorative than all-cotton imports.

Check construction, too. Look for finished seams as gauze will fray. As for fit, expect a shirt to be rather snug at first. The fabric will give a little and soften with wear. If your garment does tighten up in the wash, you can usually ease out its shape by ironing the garment while it's still damp.

Give Shower Curtain A Summer Bath

Plastic shower curtains may need special attention during warm, humid weather. I want to share some cleaning guidelines for shower curtains.

To wash your shower curtain by hand, take the curtain down, lay it in the tub and make a bath for it using warm water and sudsy soap or detergent. If there is heavy scum on the curtain, add vinegar to the sudsy water.

Once the curtain is wet, spread it against the side of the tub and scrub with a brush and suds. Turn the curtain over and do the same to the other side. Let the soiled water run out of the tub and refill the tub with enough warm water to rinse the curtain. Rinse a second time.

If you want to wash a plastic shower curtain in a washing machine, use warm sudsy water and let the machine run for three minutes. Never put the curtain through a wringer. But if you are using an automatic washer, let the curtain spin dry for about 10 seconds — just long enough to drain out the sudsy water. Rinse the curtain by letting the machine run two to three minutes in warm water.

Put the curtain back in place and spread out to drip dry, making sure the bottom edge of the curtain is inside the tub. Or hang the curtain over a clothesline, spreading it out to dry.

York Co. 4-H Lamb Club

Thirty-eight York County 4-H Lamb Club members, their families, and friends went on a day's tour July 24. One of the sites they viewed was the miniature village at Roadside America in Shartlesville.

Andy Werner of Zionsville, an employee of the Bucks County fur company, showed visitors around the Quakertown tannery. He explained the processes involved in tanning rabbit and sheep hides.

The group also toured Strasburg Railroad Museum.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Taking a day off from work, sometimes only adds to the duties when we come home.

Last week, late in the morning, we took off for Little Buffalo State Park. We had a wonderful picnic lunch at a roadside rest which was marred only by a swarm of gnats which really bothered us. The picnic tables had been varnished to a high gloss by a local boy scout troop and were very nice. I found a box turtle which we put deeper in the woods and away from the highway.

The children thought the water was too cold but I though it was fine - maybe I'm better insulated. An enormous ice cream cone in Duncannon, labeled "small" ended our days outing and back to chores we went.

xxx

The next day Philip was walking his dairy calf up the lane in preparation for the 4-H Show, when he met some cottagers from Lancaster. One lady hurriedly called her small grandchild and said, "See, there goes our pork chops." Another stopped him to pet the "bull" and when informed it was a "heifer", ask what the difference was. Many people are far removed from farm life, it seems.

xxx

As I sit here at our high school waiting for the Driver Education car to return, I am amazed at the traffic into the school area - it looks like a main road between two towns.

Many small children come to take tennis lessons. However, there are also many women playing on the courts. Tennis and golf are very popular sports with suburban housewives just now. As for me, I don't know where I'd get the energy to play after picking all my beans and freezing the corn for winter.

This year I won't need to worry about selling 50 quarts of wineberries as our neighborhood boys helped themselves to everything in our meadow which borders their housing development. In fact, I was lucky to have enough to freeze and make one batch of jelly.

Early American colonists used the milk in which blueberries had been boiled to paint their houses gray, not blue.

With peaches you can eat like royalty

Peaches were singled out for special attention when fresh peach ice cream, homemade, was selected for the dessert at the White House dinner honoring royal visitors from England this bicentennial July. It made its way to the tables elegantly decorated with cream and garnished with fresh raspberries.

All good cooks know a good thing when they taste it. Peaches are not only at the peak of eating perfection, they are also in bountiful supply according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The July 1 crop report indicates that the June production estimates announced by marketing specialists of the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service last month are very close to target. Slightly revised production figures show the peach crop expectations to be 1,505 million pounds, or 9 per cent more than last year's figures. That figure does not include the California Clingstone production. The South Carolina crop forecast remains unchanged from last month at 17 per cent higher than the 1975 figure. Pennsylvania's peach production is forecast at 11 per cent above the June 1 level due to improved growing conditions.

Use this summer's delicious peaches in this easy parfait. Slice peaches and layer them between sherberts, ice creams, puddings, or gelatin mixes in whatever color and taste combination you wish. To add something special in the way of a topping a melba sauce can add a regal touch to the tall, frosty dessert:

MELBA SAUCE

1 10-oz. package thawed frozen raspberries
1 tablespoon cornstarch
½ cup currant or raspberry jelly

Drain liquid from raspberries and combine with cornstarch. Mix well. Add jelly. Heat over medium heat, stirring constantly, until bubbly, thick, and clear. Remove from heat. Stir in berries. Chill until ready to serve. Makes about 1½ cups.

xxx

Another sweet way to end a meal with fresh peaches would be this unusual upside down peach pie. The recipe sounds a lot more complicated than it is. Just follow these directions for a new kind of pie to add to your standby recipes:

FRESH PEACH UPSIDE DOWN PIE

Pastry for two-crust 9-inch pie
2 tablespoons soft butter
two-thirds cup (4 oz.) toasted sliced almonds or pecans
one-third cup brown sugar
5 cups sliced fresh peaches (about 8 medium size)
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons tapioca
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Line 9-inch pie pan with 12-inch square of foil. Let excess foil overhang edge. Spread with butter, press in nuts and one-third cup brown sugar. Fit bottom crust into pan over nuts and sugar. Mix rest of ingredients. Pour into crust. Cover with top crust. Seal, flute, prick with fork. Brush lightly with milk. Bake at 450 degrees F. for 10 minutes, then at 375 degrees F. for 35 to 40 minutes more. Cool thoroughly. Turn upside down on serving plate. Remove foil.

Berks Co. Society 5

The July meeting of Berks County Society 5 was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Breininger, 4 S. Church St., Robesonia.

Breininger took the group on a walking tour of the Robesonia Furnace, which was established in 1794 by George Ege. Breininger then took the society in to his victorian home, which was the Taylor Mansion built in 1890 for George Taylor, superintendent of the furnace. In his store room the women saw many of Breininger's collections and also pottery which he creates.

Vice president Betty Wessner conducted the business meeting. Devotions were also led by Betty Wessner. Carolyn Feeg delivered a birthday gift to the group's adopted patient, Morris Becker, at Berks Heim.

Proceeds from the group's Chicken Bar-B-Q will be used to purchase a wheel chair for Berks Heim.

The county convention will be held Oct. 2 at the Ag Center. There will be a baazar instead of a silent auction. Carolyn Feeg volunteered to be on the baazar committee, and Freida Keppley volunteered for the nominating committee.

Chances will be sold on the group's Bicentennial quilt, 2nd prize-Granny Afgan, 3rd prize-Crocheted pillows. Winner will be announced at the Farm Women Group No. 5 Bicentennial Hoe-down, Nov. 13 to be held at Stouchsburg Fire Hall.

For the August meeting the group will meet at the corner of Rts. 419 and 422 to leave at 7:15 to go to Village Furniture Gallaries, Leesport. The date is August 23.

Winners chosen from Berks Co. Fashion Revue

By JUDY MITCHELL
Berks Co. Reporter

LEESPORT - The annual Fashion Revue, a gold star event on the Berks County 4-H calendar, was held at the Ag Center here on July 21.

Members and judges arrived at the Center shortly after 1 p.m. to get ready for the contest judging which continued into the early evening hours with 150 entrants to be rated. While the judges completed their difficult chore, hair workshops were offered for members desiring a re-do for the fashion show to take place later in the evening. Two stylists representing Pomeroy's department store located at the Berkshire Mall exercised their skills on approximately fifteen girls, and gift certificates, courtesy of the store, were presented to those 4-H'ers for whom time ran out.

Following a box supper at the Ag Center, 4-H members presented their "Bicentennial Parade" of fashions for a large gathering of parents, leaders and friends, after which, contest winners were announced.

In the junior division, three first place winners were named as county representatives for the upcoming regional competition. They are: Susan Barr, age 12, daughter of Mrs. Barbara Barr of Hamburg, with a cotton skirt; Sandra Bryde, age 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs George W. Bryde of Kutztown, with her school outfit; and Janine Burkert, age 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Burkert of Shoemakersville, for "sketch an outfit." Other winners in the junior division were: Tina Mountz who took second with her cotton skirt; Toni Springelmoyer, first place winner in the wool skirt category; and Laurie Dlahr, winner in the over-all class.

At least six boys of various ages took part in the sewing contest, and James Checdnorsky, a junior member, was named the winner in the separate boys' division.

The first six of the top ten winners in the senior division who will be representing Berks at the regionals are: Arlene Crumrine, age 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Crumrine of Kempton; Paula Dixon, age 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dixon of Kempton; Joanne Hefflegger, age 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hefflegger of Fleetwood; Jinx Henne, age 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Henne of Shartlesville; Janis Malsbury, age 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Malsbury of Rehrersburg; and Chris Wolfe. Other winners in the senior division in order of their ranking were: Diane Evans, Nan Reber, Marcici Rebman, and Joan Schroeder.

Left to right are the first place winners in the junior division who will be going on to the regionals: Sandra Bryde, age 11, from Kutztown; Janine Burkert, age 11, from Shoemakersville; and Susan Barr, age 12, from Hamburg.

A separate "start stitching" category was provided for the first year members who entered an assortment of items including aprons, slippers, and a variety of tote bags. Approximately 30 beginners entered their fashions and each received a 4-H Fashion Revue Participant Ribbon together with a judge's sheet which contained appropriate comments on the strengths and weaknesses of each item.

Judges for the Fashion Revue were: Mrs. Ann Burros, Mrs. Peggy Peters, Miss Pat Schweitzer, Mrs. Elaine Baro, Mrs. Sandy Wessner, Mrs. Emma Binckley, Miss Alyse Hix, Miss Sarah Schroeder, Mrs. Doris Herbein, Mrs. Margaret Nester, Mrs. Barbara Spatz, Mrs. Polna Gidcomb, Mrs. Candy

If your family is growing faster than your home...

Improve. Don't move.

You loved your house when you bought it. But things have changed since then. A couple of additions to the family, perhaps. A lot of additions to your belongs. Or maybe just an old-fashioned need for room to breathe.

Well, you don't have to move to get the extra room you need. You can improve instead. By adding the extra rooms you need. Or just sprucing the place up a bit.

Of course that takes money, too. Which is where Farmers First comes in. We'll lend you the money you need to bring the old place up to snuff again. You'll pay low bank rates and can take up to 5 years to repay in convenient monthly installments.

Of course we make other loans, too. For vacations, education, cars, or any worthwhile purpose. Stop at any office of Farmers First where We Have More Than Just Money To Lend.

Serving you is fun for us ...

Franklin, and Mrs. Lila Newhard.

Contest winners received gifts donated by the following businesses: Schaeffer's Dry Goods, Reading; Boxcov's East, Exeter; LeFevre Brothers, Boyertown; Grace John Fabrics, Boyertown; Wayne's Dry Goods, Kutztown; Lillian Fabric Shop, Reading; Fabric Sales Company, Reading; and Bernhart's Fabrics, Reading. Tuxedos for David Schuler and Dennis Dietrich, who escorted a number of the models in the fashion presentation, were provided by Jack O'Reilly.

General Chairman for the fashion event was Tammy Lumley, and committee members were: food - Janis Malsbury and Sheila Moyer; gifts - Mary Schuler and Ruth Schuler; decorations - Karen Noll and Doreen Richards; and evening program - Donna Mensch and Kathy Hoffman. Arrangements for the judges were made by Joan Schroeder; registration was tended by Tammy Lumley and publicity was arranged for by Gwen Wentzel. Karen Kniss and Mary Schuler directed the afternoon workshop, and Mrs. James Dautrich and Mrs. Lawrence Stratton assumed responsibility for the contest tabulation.

Cumberland Co. 4-H Baby Beef

The Cumberland County 4-H Baby Beef Club met July 19 at the home of Tim Potteiger, president, Mechanicsburg R8.

After the reading of the minutes, the leaders commented on the coming fairs. Mr. Duane Dunca, the county agent, gave the schedule of events for Shippensburg and Carlisle fairs.

Under old business, the club was informed the Lancaster Baby Beef Club was invited to one of the clubs monthly meetings. Also, we were reminded of the club picnic on August 22. The club was also told of the exchange trip 4-Her's from Minnesota would be here during Shippensburg Fair, July 26-31.

Under new business, the club voted to have a peanut sale this fall.

To keep freshly sliced peaches from turning dark, and if too much time will elapse before serving, dip the slices in orange juice or sprinkle them with lemon juice.

Society 7

Farm Women Society 7 recently met at the home of Mrs. John Shirk, Paradise. After committee reports, the program consisted of a book review on The Fragrance of Beauty. The review was given by Mrs. Henry Yohn.

The two main thoughts of the book were that of "inner beauty," or of Christ living within an individual, and the second was of "outer beauty" or appearance.

There will be no August meeting, because of the County Picnic at the Brethren Village, Neffsville, at 12 p.m. The meal is a covered dish luncheon.

A bus trip is planned for Society 7 on August 17. The rain date is August 24. The meeting place will be the Presbyterian Church, Paradise, at 9:30 a.m.

Places of interest will be the Pa. Dutch Information Center where a film will be shown, and a tour of Landis Valley Museum, where lunch will be served at 12:30 p.m. The group will then move on to Wheatland and Rock Ford. Those desiring to go should contact Mrs. Betty Wenger at 687-7877.

The September meeting will be held on the usual date on Saturday at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Charles Lichty, Paradise.

Society 29

On Monday evening, July 19th, Society 29 took a step back in time to an 18th century community as members and guests took a candlelight tour through elegant Donegal Mills Plantation.

After partaking of refreshments, the meeting was held in the three story brick mill. Guests were members of Society 16 and county officers.

The president, Mrs. Gerald Erb, reminded the group that the county picnic will be held August 4th, at Neffsville Village home. August is vacation month! Our next meeting will be in September.

A pound of peaches equals 3-medium sized peaches which will, in turn, yield 2 cups sliced, 1 cup pulp, or just a shade under a pint of frozen or canned peaches.

The 1976 KUTZTOWN FAIR

Junior Cooking Edition

This is the last week for picnic recipes, and this week's category is "desserts." Somehow, the Junior Cooks always excell in this area. Overall, during the picnic recipe month, the Junior Cooks sent in about the same amount of sandwiches and finger foods as the "Home on the Range" ladies, but didn't send in quite as many salads as the other cooks. However, the Junior Cooks did send in more desserts than the other group, so the contest came up equal. Good job, Junior Cooks

Remember, that next month's recipes should have a fruit or vegetable in them that is in season, if possible. If not, any type recipe will do, because Lancaster Farming is just glad that so many young people can cook as well as they do.

Rice Krispy Candy

¼ cup butter
1 (6-10 oz.) package regular marshmallows (about 40) or 4 cups miniature marshmallows
5 cups Rice Krispy cereal

Measure margarine into 3 quart saucepan, melt over low heat. Add marshmallows and cook, stirring constantly until marshmallows are melted and mixture is very syrupy. Remove from heat. Add Rice Krispy cereal, stir until well coated. Spread warm mixture in buttered 13 x 19 x 2 inch pan. Using a spatula, press firmly into an even layer. Cut into squares when cool.

Cherry Dessert

One-third pound graham crackers
50 large marshmallows
1 cup milk
2 packages whipped topping, whipped
1 quart sweet cherries clear jell
sugar

Crumb graham crackers and line bottom of pan or dish with them. Put marshmallows in double boiler. Add milk. Melt marshmallows and cool. Then prepare whipped topping as on package. Add whipped topping to cooled marshmallows. Pour over graham crackers. Add sugar to the cherries to suit your taste. Thicken with clear jell. Pour over top of dessert. Other toppings such as blueberries or sour cherries can be used.

STA-RITE Milking Equipment

Robert Metzler (left) & son, Jerry, of Winding Glen Farm, Christiana RD1. Jerry says, "We bought these milkers because we wanted milkers which didn't fall off. We've tried others which fall off . . . they color your vocabulary. With our old milkers, when we took them off, the cow teats would be blue and we had some mastitis, but the Sta-Rite milkers are much easier. They take care of the cows' udders. My grandfather (John Metzler) milked cows for 45 years and he has observed these Sta-Rite and notes that the cows seem to enjoy being milked and the Sta-Rite is a gentle milker."

ALFA-ZYME

A SILAGE MAKER AND PRESERVER OF OUTSTANDING MERIT

Tests conducted with all methods

- Upright
- Piles covered with plastic
- Pit
- Plastic sealed

To show the improvement that is possible in making good corn silage by the addition of Alfa-Zyme we submit the comparative experiment.

CORN SILAGE WITHOUT ALFA-ZYME
Established Digestive Protein	0 9
Established T D N	17 3
Established Net Energy Therms per cwt	14 9

CORN SILAGE WITH ALFA-ZYME
Established Digestive Protein	1 6
Established T D N	28 0
Established Net Energy Therms per cwt	25 5

The above figures show the average improvement found over five years of testing.

These improvements are made possible by Alfa-Zyme's ability to start a quick fermentation, thus preserving the total digestive nutrients.

ADVANTAGES OF ADDING ALFA–ZYME

1. Guaranteed Return of Feedstuffs
2. Less Wasteful Droppings
3. 200 Million Yeast Count Per Gram

First of a kind peach cookbook to be released

GATCHELLVILLE - Gail McPherson, wife of National Peach Council President Paul McPherson, New Park, is about to release first edition copies of The Passion For Peaches Cookbook, a 200 page resource book on the "Queen of Fruits." It contains nearly 300 recipes tested by National Peach Council and local kitchens, consumer buying and storing tips, a variety and use chart, community fund raising social plans, plus history and legends surrounding the fragile, but regal, fresh peach.

Over 20 York County residents were contributors to the recipe collection and six local kitchens tested recipes not pulled from National Peach Council files to aid in the compilation of a versatile and complete peach food idea book, the first of its kind in the country.

The cookbook features the peach in everything from breakfast and beverage treats to salads and main dish entrees, hot and cold desserts, and gourmet selections. It also contains various methods to preserve the peach for winter use.

Testing recipes over the 1975 season were: Joyce Bupp, Seven Valleys; Kennard-Dale High School Gourmet Foods Class under the supervision of Deanna Mikesell, Fawn Grove; Susan Kurth, York; Mary Marsteller and daughter Helen, Stewartstown; and Evelyn Spory, Hanover.

As editor-author of "The Passion For Peaches Cookbook," Mrs. McPherson hopes to complement the work of her husband in promoting fresh peaches across the nation. The fruit is grown in 40 of the 50 states and easily shipped to all of them from May through October. This is the height of the peach season in Pennsylvania, which ranks third in peach production in the country. The couple operate a 175 acre peach orchard at Maple Lawn Farms, near Gatchellville.

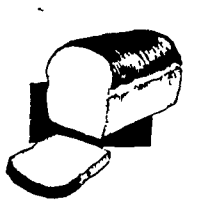
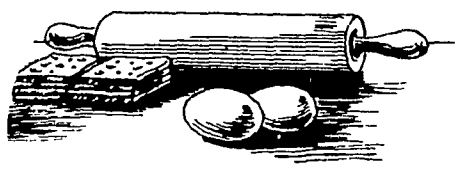
Home on The Range





This is the week for picnic desserts. Although any kind of dessert is always appreciated on a picnic, a variation on the usual chocolate cake and peanut butter cookies may really be enjoyed.

This is the end of July, so that means we have come to the end of the picnic recipe month. Although August has not been designated as a special recipe month, new ways to prepare the fruits and vegetables of the season would be appreciated. There must be several ways to prepare sweet corn, besides corn on the cob and cream style. If you have any good sweet corn recipes, send them in. Tomatoes are another type of vegetable where the possibilities are endless. Lancaster Farming would appreciate any family-approved recipes pertaining to other in-season fruits and vegetables, also.

Hope you tried and enjoyed some of this month's picnic recipes.

Pecan Surprise Bars

1 package yellow or white cake mix
½ cup butter, melted
1 egg
1 cup chopped pecans

Grease bottom and sides of 13 x 9 pan. Reserve two-thirds cup dry cake mix for filling. In large mixing bowl, combine remaining dry cake mix, butter, and one egg, mix until crumbly. Press in prepared pan. Bake at 350 degrees F for 15 to 20 minutes until light golden brown. Meanwhile prepare filling. Pour filling over partially baked crust, sprinkle with pecans. Return to oven and bake for 30 to 35 minutes until filling is set.

FILLING:

Two-thirds cup reserved cake mix
½ cup brown sugar
1½ cups molasses
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs

In large mixer bowl combine all ingredients, beat at medium speed, one to two minutes.

Bake at 375 degrees F as directed above.

Blueberry Cheese Cake

1 package graham crackers, rolled fine
¼ pound soft butter
½ cup sugar
2 (8 oz.) packages cream cheese
2 eggs
1 cup sugar

To graham crackers, add soft butter and sugar. Pour in cake pan and press firmly. Beat together cream cheese, eggs, and sugar. Pour over crumb mixture and bake at 375 degrees F. for 15 minutes or when mixture seems to become firm. Cool. Thicken blueberries, cherries, or pineapples with clear jell or cornstarch. Cool, and pour on top and serve with whipped cream.

Heavenly Hawaiian Cream

1 No. 2 can (2½ cups) pineapple tidbits
¼ pound (16) marshmallows, cut in eighths
¼ cup well-drained maraschino cherries, cut in fourths
1 cup whipping cream, whipped
¼ cup slivered blanched almonds
Toasted and shredded coconut

Drain the pineapple tidbits, reserving ¼ cup of the syrup. Combine pineapple, cut marshmallows, cherries, and reserved ¼ cup pineapple syrup. Let mixture stand one hour. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon into dessert dishes and chill. To serve, sprinkle with nuts and top with coconut. Makes about six to eight servings.

Yellow Sponge Cake

1¼ cups sifted flour
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
6 egg whites
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
½ cup sugar
6 egg yolks
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift together flour, ½ cup sugar, baking powder and salt. In a large mixing bowl, beat egg whites until frothy. Add cream of tartar. Gradually beat in ½ cup sugar, a little at a time. Beat until whites form stiff, not dry peaks. In a small bowl combine egg yolks, water, vanilla and sifted dry ingredients. Beat at medium speed for four minutes or until mixture is light and fluffy. Fold yolk mixture gently, but thoroughly, into beaten egg whites. Put in ungreased 10-inch tube pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Buttermilk Custard

FILLING:

1 egg
½ cup sugar
½ cup molasses
½ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla

TOPPING:

1 egg
1 cup sugar
½ cup lard
½ cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1½ cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix ingredients for filling of custard and divide into two unbaked pie shells. Mix ingredients for top as if mixing a cake, then spoon mixture on top of shell and bake at 350 degrees F., for 35 to 40 minutes. Makes two pies. These are good pies to freeze after they are baked and to use on a picnic.

BEVERAGES

Orange-Lemon Drink

2 oranges
2 lemons

Grind the two oranges and lemons together. Add 1½ cups sugar and let stand two hours, add 2½ quarts water and strain. More water may be added if desired. Chill.

York 4-H'ers participate in regional dress revue

YORK - Eleven 4-H'ers from York County were selected to represent that county at the Capital Region 4-H Dress Revue held in Camp Hill on July 29.

The York 4-H'ers who took part in the regional revue were: Seniors - Patrice Thoman, R1 Glen Rock; Amy Swartz, R2 Hanover; Stephanie Lehr, R2 Spring Grove; Donna Ort, R2 Seven Valleys; Chris DePalmer, R1 Brodbecks; Beth Rutter, 75 Lightner Road, York; Lucinda Wilson, R1 Glen Rock; and Susan Geesey, R3 Red Lion.

The Juniors were Becky Gochenauer, R1 Dillsburg; Erica Hartman, R3 Dillsburg; and Beth Arnold, R1 Felton.

These 4-H'ers started their costumes at the beginning of the 4-H club year. In addition to their sewing they had the opportunity to develop grace and poise, habits of good grooming, and skill in decision-making. They also got the chance to help plan the county dress revue.

The York County 4-H'ers competed with those selected from the other counties in the Capital Region. The five top regional winners, here, were awarded gold ribbons, and each county contestant received a certificate of participation and a medal of honor.

The five gold ribbon winners from the Capital Region will now compete with the top winners from each of the other eight regions for state honors. The state winner will be selected August 21 at The Pennsylvania State University, University Park Campus. Thirty-five 4-H'ers will participate in this event. The state winner will get an expense paid trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago in December 1-5.

The Cooperative Extension Service of the University and the Pennsylvania Retailers' Association sponsor the State Dress Revue program. Simplicity Pattern Company, sponsor of the national 4-H Revue program, provides the county medals and the trip to Congress.

Top seamstresses named at 4-H dress revue

By JOANNE SPAHR

LANCASTER- "I wouldn't want to be making the decisions today," was the comment of Doris Thomas, Lancaster home economist, as the final results of the Lancaster County 4-H Dress Revue were being tallied on July 23. Held at the Farm and Home Center, the dress revue was the annual, long awaited event where Lancaster County 4-H'ers get the chance to model their garments, practice their poise, and learn how their projects compared with those of their peers.

Out of the 93 entrants in the dress revue - 42 seniors and 51 juniors - eight seniors and three juniors were chosen to go on to participate in regional competition held on July 29 at the Penn Harris Motor Inn, Camp Hill. Four senior alternates and three junior alternates were also chosen. Although these girls didn't go on to regionals, they were recognized for the exceptional merit of their garments, and served as replacements in case any of the winners were unable to participate in the regional competition.

Of the eight seniors to take the top prizes, two were sisters. The duo was Susanne and Saralee Martin from the Pequea Valley 4-H cvlub. Susanne's outfit was made of wool and had a short, fitted jacket with a contrasting collar and cuffs and a bright paisley lining. Saralee's was a two-piece dress made of tan hobo coth. Her outfit featured a bowed collar and a slightly flared skirt.

Trudy Nissley also took a gold ribbon with her blazer and slacks outfit. Trudy is a member of the Mt. Joy 4-H Club.

A fourth senior gold ribbon winner was Laura Wunderly of Garden Spot. Laura's outfit was two-piece with an A-line skirt and tunic style top.

A well-constructed brushed denim suit, gathered at the waist by a super stitch belt and sporting a six-gore skirt was the garment that placed Cathy Brubaker in the top eight finalists. Cathy is a member of Landisville 4-H.

Julie Bare, Maureen Doyle, and Laurie Leaman also placed among the top eight senior girls to go on the regionals.

Julie Bare's square neckline dress was accented by eight different blue and white print fabrics, which she quilted and appliqued herself. The patchwork and hand quilting took her 25 hours. Julie is a member of the Lampeter-Strasburg Sewing Club.

The award winning outfit created by Maureen Doyle was a gray flannel suit with tucked pants, blazer, and a striped silk vest. Maureen belongs to the Elizabethtown 4-H sewing club.

And, Laurie Leaman from the Ephrata sewing club took a gold ribbon for her ribbed sweater knit and double knit jacket and A-line skirt in muted shades of mauve and gray.

The three junior gold ribbon winners were Susan Howell, Judy Weaver, and Christine Ebersole.

Susan Howell of Garden Spot took a first place with a wine colored wool outfit consisting of an A-line skirt and vest.

A blue kettlecloth pants suit with a bib, suspenders, and jacket won Judy Weaver of Mountville 4-H top honors.

And, Elm-Penryn 4-H'er, Christine Ebersole, placed among the top three juniors with her two-piece suit drss.

Senior alternates were June Grube, Landisville 4-H; Anita Braightmeyer, Solanco 4-H; Robin Esbenshade, Mt. Joy 4-H; and Mary Ellen Lee, Garden Spot 4-H.

A third Martin sister, Jean, made one of the three junior alternates along with Cheryl Gingrich and Rhonda Witmer.

As was mentioned, the gold ribbon winners went on to compete in Capital Region 4-H Dress Revue. The capital region consists of York, Lancaster, Dauphin, Adams, Cumberland, Lebanon, and Franklin counties.

According to the judges, this year's competition, as is the custom in the Lancaster area, was tough. Professional judging began at 9:45 in the morning and didn't end until about 4 p.m. During that time, in the morning there was modeling practice for the waiting girls, a speech by Mrs. Virginia Kloss on "Timely Techniques", and a buffet luncheon at noon. Then, during the afternoon, the girls were entertained with demonstrations by Susan Martin - "Let's Knot and Say You Did"; Carol Ebersole - "Green Thumbs for Everyone"; and Rosemary Nissley - "Find Your Tools".

At 2 p.m. the featured entertainment was the "Mad Hatter", Dorothy Parmer of Lancaster. She sang songs of the 1890's and modeled and described dresses from that time period. Simultaneously, girls were being called back and reviewed again for the finalist and semifinalist titles. This year the girls were also critiqued as they were judged to help them in the future with their sewing and poise.

The next entertainment on the afternoon's agenda was the fashion revue by all 93 girls. They modeled their garments to a room full of mothers and other interested admirers.

Then, at about 4 p.m., it was time to name the winners, and the lucky girls came on stage again for everyone to see the award winning outfits.

Judges for the event were Judy De Lucia, Elaine Bare, Barbara Shank, and Betty Smoker.

Vegetable field day is slated for August 24

STATE COLLEGE - Growers from Pennsylvania and neighboring states are invited to attend a vegetable field day August 24 at the Horticultural Research Farm of The Pennsylvania State University, eight miles west of State College on Route 45. Among features will be new methods and equipment, the latest vegetable varieties, and tomato culture and harvesting.

The Vegetable Field Day will start with registration and a brief introductory program from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. Tours of plots and machinery demonstrations will begin at 9:30 a.m. and will continue until late in the afternoon. The Horticultural Research Farm is a part of Penn State's 1525 acre Rock Springs Agricultural Research Center.

Vegetable plants grown directly into trays by the Speedling method, then transplanted, will be demonstrated. The new method of growing is designed as an alternative method of producing field grown transplants.

Three other machinery demonstrations will be featured. One will show soil fumigation equipment using a plastic tarp. Previously treated plots with strawberry varieties will be compared. Another area of interest will demonstrate low volume, air-blast sprayers and powered rotary tillage equipment. Equally interesting should be a one-row, pull-type snap bean harvester designed for small acreage use.

Shown will be the newest varieties of sweetcorn, snap beans, tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers, muskmelons, watermelons, cabbage, and cauliflower. Potato plantings will include genetic experiments. Such potato plants are supplying background information on the usefulness of wild species - major sources of genes for disease and insect resistance - in breeding work.

Tomato culture work will demonstrate fertilizer application for both direct seeded plants and transplants. Four different fertilizer placements will be used. Varieties for machine harvesting will be shown.

Sweet corn plots will show a Penn State experimental high sugar hybrid - with ears available for eating. The hybrid will be evaluated at different fertility levels. Additional breeding work will be shown, wherein scientists are developing and testing other corn types for unique properties.

Extensive plots will show chemical weeding of 11 vegetable crops. The trials will feature results with over 50 herbicides.

Production practices to reduce fruit rot losses on tomatoes will be shown - fungicides, transplants, harvest methods, and variety. The most effective and economical control of tomato early blight will also be featured. The effect of fungicide sprays and varieties on pumpkin fruit rot will be demonstrated. Disease observation blocks will be seen - testing economical programs to control cabbage leaf spots, celery blights, muskmelon leaf spots and mildew, and bean root rots.

Duncan assumes position at Sperry New Holland

NEW HOLLAND — Calvin L. Duncan, who retired recently from the Lancaster Bureau of Police, has been named to the new position of Equal Employment Opportunity Programs Manager for Sperry New Holland effective August 23, it was announced by Michael R. Losey, vice president of personnel for the local farm and industrial equipment company.

In his new post with Sperry New Holland, Duncan will be assigned to the company's personnel division and will advise and assist Personnel people at all North American Division locations in the preparation and administration of Affirmative Action Programs as well as in carrying out other activities related to EEO.

A 25-year veteran of the Lancaster police, Duncan was commander of the Administrative and Services Division with the rank of captain when he retired. Known for his expertise in the human relations area, he has been active in the Bureau's community relations program. For the past seven years he has been a guest instructor at the Pennsylvania State Police Academy on the subject of human and race relations.

Don't make castles in the sand — make scenes

By JOANNE SPAHR

QUARRYVILLE - Do you like to play in the sand? If you do, don't feel funny because you have company. Marcia Hess, current Pennsylvania FFA Princess does too, and because of it, she has come up with some beautiful art with which to fill her home.

A graduate of Solanco High School and Willow Street Vo-Tech, where she majored in floriculture, Marcia picked up the art of sand pouring - creating designs in a glass container with sand - while attending Vo-Tech school. Marcia says it is an easy craft once you get started, and has taught at least one friend how to do it for a five or ten minute demonstration which that friend had to present for a class.

Equipment

The equipment you need to get started on this play-like craft is color fast sand, which you can purchase from almost any store that has a craft department. Marcia suggests getting at least three different colors with which to work so that your design turns out to be interesting to the eye.

Another key piece of equipment needed is a glass container, which can be any shape, but Marcia says that for convenience sake, a widemouth will work the best. The container she chose to work with for this demonstration was a brandy snifter. The snifter gave her plenty of room at the top to move her hands and an even deeper, shallower bottom on which to arrange her scenery. It is important to note, also, that clear plastic does not work.

Other necessary utensils required to create the sand arrangements are a wire and a pick, or a knife and fork. On the first try, a knife and fork will do, then if you like the craft and want to do more of it, you can obtain a wire and pick at any craft store. To create scenes in the sand, you will also need a long handled ice tea spoon which must be bent into a right angle.

The above are the only things you need to make the sand pouring. However, if you want to keep it in place better, and want to create something useful out of something "just for pretty", you will need potting soil and a plant to place on the top of your sand design. Marcia likes to use cacti for an open air container because they take less watering and the roots don't grow as deep. Because of this, you can be relatively sure that the roots won't grow down into the sand design and ruin it.

If you use a closed glass container, you can also make a terrarium with your sand pouring. For this, you will need to purchase special plants.

Marcia Hess enjoys the art of sand pouring.

The only other necessary tool for this art is an imagination - with it you can make any kind of sand pouring from a simple design to detailed scenery.

Designs

For your first attempt at this craft, Marcia suggests starting with a design. This type is easier, and with just a few different movements of your knife, you can make many, many different and pretty designs.

To begin, place a base layer of sand on the bottom of the container. Then, with a wooden pick or knife, make an indentation in the sand along the far edge of the glass, and holding the tip of the knife on the bottom of the container, bring the knife or pick straight back towards you to the center of the glass. Continue to make this same design at equal spaces around the container, and then add different layers of harmonizing sand and keep making the design with each new layer. This will create a pattern of variegated sand

To begin making a mountain scene sand pouring, Marcia places a wide mouth glass container on a Lazy Susan which is covered with a cloth for easy handling and simple clean-up. Then, she pours a base layer of sand on the bottom of the container. On top of this, she begins to form her mountains by heaping mounds of sand along the side of the container. She places these mounds at equal distances around the container, which gives an effect of a mountain range. After she has her three mountains formed, she then fills in the center with a neutral layer of sand to hold the shapes in place and keep them from shifting.

along the outside of the container.

For fancier designs Marcia says, "Just take off and use your imagination."

Before you finish, however, be sure to let two inches of space between the top of the sand pouring and the top of the container. This extra space is needed to add the potting soil in which to plant your cactus, or whatever greenery you choose.

To make working easier, Marcia suggests using a Lazy Susan covered with a cloth on which to set the container. Not only does the roataing base make it easier to work, but the cloth simplifies clean up.

Scenery

You can also make pretty scenery in your container. There are many, many types of scenery to paint with your sand, but Marcia has described one basic - the mountain scene.

To begin you spread a base layer of sand over the bottom of the container. Then, to create the mountain effect, you heap three "hills" of sand anywhere along the edge of the container. Marcia suggests spacing them equal distances apart like a triangle for a more uniform scene. She also stresses that after the hills have been poured, it is very important to back them in the center with a filler color, so they keep their mountain-like shape. Otherwise, without this to hold them in place, they will eventually level out to a flat layer. This filler can be any neutral color, and it is placed on the inside of container, "behind" the sand mounds.

To "snowcap" your mountains, spread a thin layer of white sand over the top of each mound and penetrate the white sand with the fork or pick. This will mesh the two colors for the desired effect. This also destroys the peak of the mountain, so to build it up again, put another layer of sand, the color of the mountain, on top of the mound.

Once the mountains are made, the sky follows. Fill in around the mountains with another shade of blue. For a sunset effect, add a layer of blue, then red, then yellow, and purple, or any other colors you choose.

To liven up the sky even more, Marcia suggests adding birds on the horizon. To do this, she makes an indentation in the sand with her tea spoon and fills it with black sand. Then, she pierces the black sand with a knife or pick and draws it to the center of the container, as with the design. That, according to Marcia, is all it takes to make a bird.

When the design of mountains, sky, and birds are all finished, Marcia covers the whole pouring with blue sand, leaves two inches at the top for soil and plants, and she's finished.

If you don't want plants, and you just want the sand pouring, you can also put a cork on the top of the container to hold the sand in place.

A sand pouring is an attractive asset to any home. The finished product can either be corked at the top or used as the base for a potted plant.

So, the next time you feel like playing in the sand, don't just make sand castles - let your imagination run wild and create an attractive scene to decorate your home.

Calf to be given away at Lancaster Co. Holstein Field Day

LANCASTER - The annual Lancaster County Holstein Field Day will be held Thursday, August 5, at the farm of Maurice Welk, Quarryville. The meeting will begin promptly at 10:30 a.m.

Speaker for the program is Raymond Weber, general manager of Dairy Council, Inc., Philadelphia. Contest judge is Paul King from Delta in York County.

A chicken barbecue lunch will be served at noon. Tickets are $2.25 and reservations must be made by July 31 with Robert Kauffman, Jr., Peach Bottom R1.

Judging prizes and door prizes will be offered this year and a calf will be given away to an eligible youth. To qualify, the young person must be between the ages of nine and 16, and must be, or must be willing to become, a member of 4-H or FFA and a junior Holstein member. He must also be a resident of Lancaster County, and the calf must be raised with acceptable management practices, and must be shown the next year. Interested youths can register on August 5, and must be present to win. Winners are not eligible in subsequent drawings.

Choir at Longwood Gardens

KENNETT SQUARE - The Aldersgate Chancel Choir will present a festive Bicentennial concert at Longwood Gardens, Sunday, August 1, at 4:00 p.m. The performance will take place in the Open Air Theatre. Admission to the concert will be by payment of the day's regular admission fee to the gardens.

The Aldersgate Choir was a part of Delaware's Bicentennial Chorus which sang at Rodney Square in Wilmington, Washington Square in Philadelphia and on the Green in Dover. Wearing colorful bicentennial costumes, the 80-voice choir will sing such favorites as "Yankee Doodle Dandy," "You're a Grand Old Flag," "This is Your Land," and "This is My Country."

Mrs. Evelyn Swensson, director of the group, is well known at Longwood. In past seasons she has conducted "Oklahoma," and "No, No, Nannette" for the Brandywiners, Ltd. "The Brandywine Cathedral Brass" and Bradford T. Winters, organist at Aldersgate Church, will accompany the Choir. Their program will include a variety of folk dances choreographed by Linda Moore.

By JOANNE SPAHR

KIMBERTON — Until the spectator came to the 4-H Dairy Show tent at the Kimberton Fair, here, on Saturday, July 24, the biggest attraction was a small herd of elephants to be admired and ridden. However, to anyone with a little farming knowledge, the 4-H show definitely took over as the best event. At least 140 well groomed animals from both colored breeds and Holsteins were judged in two rings, and seven 4-H clubs were represented — Chester County Black and White, Chester Valley Dairy, Manor Dairy, Octorara Dairy, Oxford Area Dairy, Southern Chester County Community, and Tre-Community.

Chester County Dairy Princess Linda Yeager also participated in the show and gave a brief speech during one of the interim periods.

The results from the different breeds and classes were as follows:

Cecil County Fair expanded

COLORA, Md. — With this year's six-day Cecil County Fair, two additional days of events promise excitement for every member of the family.

Horse lovers will particularly be interested in the jousting exhibition on Wednesday at 3 p.m. followed by the fair's first horse-pulling contest at 6 p.m. Prize money for the horse-pull will be furnished in part by Rising Sun and Elkton Southern States Co-ops. Pullers have been invited from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and Virginia, but the competition for the $100 first prize is open to anyone with a team. On Friday at 7 p.m. the local Quarter Horse Association will sponsor a western show for everyone who likes fast moving action.

The annual tractor pull on Monday and Tuesday nights will be held in the new pulling arena in front of the grandstand so all spectators will have an excellent view. Additional prize money of $400 is being furnished by Lewisville Supply with trophies from Towson P.C.A. Field stock, modified, open and super stock will pull on Monday with garden tractors (Cecil County residents only) and 4-wheel drive tractors pulling on Tuesday night.

Youth Day, August 5, will feature activities for 4-H and other young people starting with 4-H garden tractor contest, dairy goat show, 4-H dog show, 4-H rocket display, pretty animal contest and ending with a 4-H talent and fashion show at 8 p.m. Following the show, a square dance sponsored by the Northern Young Farmers, for the general public will begin.

Along with all the new events, there will also be several events that have become old favorites. Monday evening, preceeding the tractor pull, the Republican Central Committee will hold a chicken bar-b-que beginning at 4 p.m. Tuesday night at 9 p.m. the Cecil County Farm Queen will be crowned for her reign over the fair. Wednesday is dairy day with judging beginning at 12:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday are again devoted to horsemanship with Western competition on Friday and English on Saturday.

Throughout the entire fair there will be booths, craft demonstrations, an animal kindergarten, sponsored by the Southern Young Farmers, and a new family - oriented midway furnished by Oscar's Amusements of Norristown, Pa.

One of the high points of the week will be the Grandpa Jones Show on Saturday evening.

Children under 12 are admitted free as well as all 4-H and FFA members with their membership cards.

Market offices opened

The seasonal Market News offices in Martinsburg, West Virginia, and Riverhead, N.Y. are scheduled to reopen August 2, 1976, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

This year, daily market news reports on peaches and apples will be available by mail from Martinsburg Officer-in-Charge Kathleen A. Brubaker. In past seasons the office only issued reports semi-weekly.

Market News reports on potatoes, cauliflower, cabbage, and ornamental crops will be available by mail from Riverhead Officer-in-Charge Douglas Edwards.

The Long Island office will also be equipped with a recorder phone for up-to-the-minute market information. Phone: 516-727-6884.

CATTLEMEN
RESEARCH HIGHLIGHTS

PRO-SIL® Silage Activator

PRO-SIL® at . . . Pennsylvania State Univ.

Dr. Erskine Cash at Pennsylvania State University recently completed an experiment comparing the effect of various supplemental protein sources on the feedlot performance of finishing cattle fed corn silage.

Summary of a Finishing Trial at Pennsylvania State University

	Average Daily Gain (Lbs.)	Average Daily Feed Consumption (Lbs. Dry Matter)	Feed Efficiency (Feed/Gain)	Improvement in Feed Efficiency	Feed Cost per Pound Gain
Regular Silage (SBM + minerals)	2.78	19.91	7.15	— —	34.0 cents
Urea + Minerals + Shelled Corn Treated Silage	2.84	21.23	7.48	(—) 4.6%	34.8 cents
Cattle on Pro-Sil (no additional minerals)	2.87	19.75	6.91	(+) 3.3%	32.2 cents

The performance data above have been gathered from feedlot cattle in Pennsylvania State University research facilities. Average starting weights were 794 pounds.

WHY DOES PRO-SILAGE WORK SO WELL?

It is not a drug or antibiotic (no pharmaceutical effect) and it contains no "magic" ingredients. It achieves its effect in several well-defined ways. Proven application techniques insure complete distribution of the Pro-Sil over every particle of silage.

(1) Pro-Sil increases the overall energy level of silage by (a) reducing CO2 losses, (b) doubling lactic acid production without increasing acidity, (c) retaining higher soluable carbohydrate levels, (d) reducing secondary fermentation losses.

(2) Pro-Sil increases digestible protein of silage to optimum levels.

(3) Each mouthful of Pro-Silage contains all known required nutrients including minerals providing a maximum efficiency environment for rumen micro-organisms (superior to piecemeal consumption of ration components throughout the day).

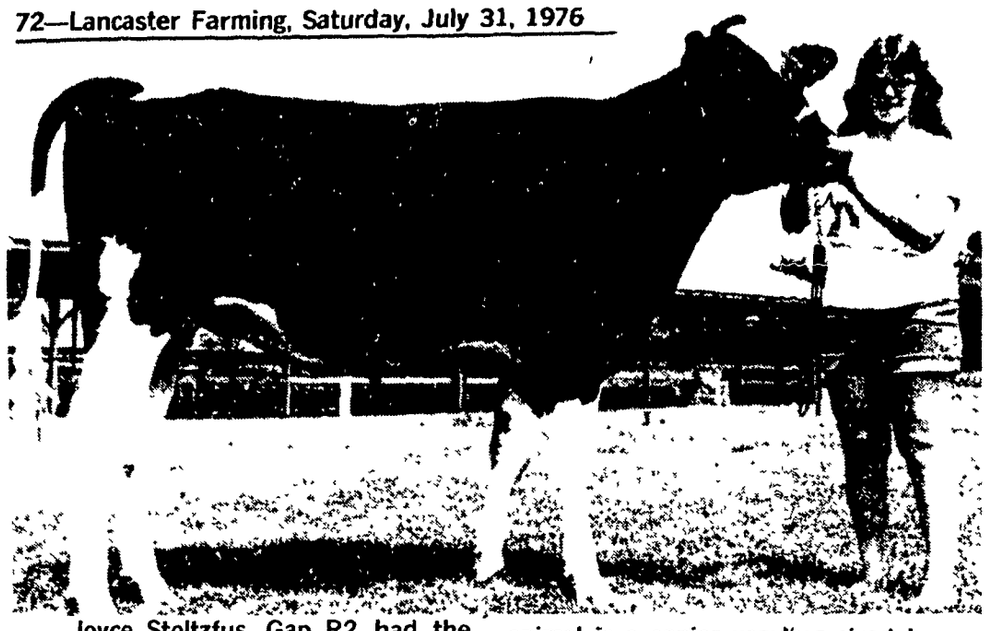
Sandi Frey shows Hols



Joyce Stoltzfus, Gap R2, had the junior champion at the 4-H Dairy Round-up for Lancaster County. Her animal is a senior yearling sired by Harrisburg Gay Ideal.

QUARRYVILLE — After 10 years of showing registered Holsteins, and a number of "reserve grand champions" and even a reserve "Junior All-American," 17-year old Sandi Frey of Willow Street exhibited her first "grand champion."

"Fultonway Alnat Ivanhoe Gina," a 6-year old daughter of Paclamar Astronaut, was chosen "grand champion" of the Lancaster County 4-H Holstein Round-up, held here on Wednesday. The stylish animal has been exhibited at various shows since she was a calf, and was, in fact, the reserve Junior All-American Miss Frey showed at the Nationals in 1971.

Placing second to Miss Frey was Linda Lou Kauffman of Elizabethtown. She exhibited a 6-year old daughter of "Penn-Gate Fond Reflection." She was also the reserve senior champion.

The junior champion of the Holstein show belonged to Joyce Stoltzfus, Gap R2. Showing a senior yearling sired by "Harrisburg Gay Ideal," she edged a junior yearling shown by Arlen Keener, who took junior reserve honors. His entry was sired by "Bootmaker." For pictures of these top animals, please see the front section of this issue.

Following are the results of the individual classes:

Junior Calf

1. James Frey with "Fultonway Elevation Ralyn," 2. Clair Hoover, 3. Rhonda Balmer, 4. Linda Kauffman, 5. Neal Crouse, 6. Patti Hershey, 7. Sheila Frey. There were 22 animals entered in the class.

Intermediate Calf

1. Lowell Brubaker with "Penn Har-Va Raverion Debbie," 2. Karen Shertzer, 3. Charles Groff. There were eight animals in the class.

Senior Calf

1. Leonard Stoltzfus with "Con-Noll Gay Frisky," 2. Steven Spayd, 3. Martha Gregory. There were six animals in the class.

The reserve grand champion Brown Swiss at the 1976 4-H Dairy Show was "Leon A Beauty Sharon," exhibited by Lois Wanner. She was also the breed's only Master Fitter.

200 members attend Berks Co. Holstein picnic

By JUDY MITCHELL
Berks Co. Reporter

RICHLAND - Groups of men, women, and young people gathered near the specially marked dairy animals at the Richard R. Troutman farm on the evening of July 20, carefully marking their ballots for the judging event which highlighted the annual Berks County Holstein Picnic attended by approximately 200 association members and friends. At the same time, official judge Harry Roth from the Atlantic Breeders' Cooperative, whose opinion provided the basis for determining contest winners, also ranked the animals in each of three categories - senior yearlings, three-year-olds and age cows - according to their "dairiness."

Miriam Ruth, the top winner in the women's division, came closest to Roth's appraisal of the cows, scoring 148 out of a possible 150 points. Following Miriam in the women's division were Barbara Bicksler with 142.2 points; Cheryl Youse, 138.3; Joanne Ruth, 138.4; and Mrs. Harvey Stolzt with 135 points. Carol Risser ranked first among the women in judging the cow with the highest production average.

Dan Harnish led in the men's division with 145 points, followed by George Schuler, 143; Robert Seidel, 142; Curtis Diffenbach, 140; and Burd Schantz, 139. Bob Lentz was first in naming the highest producer.

Jeffrey Miller and David Schantz tied as the top ranking youths with 146 points each. Next in order were Connie Ohlinger and Donna Stump with 133 points each; Randy Moyer, 128.3; and Sandy Miller 124 points. Gary Lentz came in first as the youth in assessing the top producer.

Contest winners were awarded prizes donated by area ag businesses.

Following the judging event, Association President Elwood Ohlinger directed a program which included a slide presentation by guest speaker, Robert Morris, director of Special Programs for the Pa. Holstein Association. Morris's presentation centered on the 125 acre farm in Middletown, Pa., which the association purchased last August, contrasting the farm as it appeared then and as it appears now. The farm presently serves as a quarantine station and export facility for Holsteins destined for foreign lands.

County Agent James Haldeman was on hand to say a few words to the group, informing them of tentative plans for chartering a bus to Whether or not the service will materialize, he pointed out, will depend on the number of people wishing to attend, and interested persons should contact him at his office at the Ag Center in Leesport. Haldeman also took the opportunity to formally announce Chuck Suloff's plans to leave the Extension Service, adding that the Associate county agent, who is going with Farm Credit, will be greatly missed at the county offices.

Following the program, refreshments were served in the large open tent set up for the occasion as members and guests relaxed for the balance of the association's successful summer social.

Kutztown 4-H Fair set for Aug. 5

KUTZTOWN — The annual 4-H Fair will be held on the fifth of August at the Kutztown Fairgrounds. Projects and displays will be entered starting at 9:30 a.m. Baked goods, floral exhibits and individual displays are just some of the things that will be judged. A talent show will again be on the agenda for the day, along with the volleyball tournament and physical fitness competition. A chicken bar-b-que will be held from 4 to 8 p.m. Tickets may be obtained from any 4-H'er or the Extension office. The telephone number is 215-378-1327. All tickets must be bought in advance of the fair. The evening program will consist of the fashion show, the awards being given to the top winners in all classes, and an auction of champion baked goods. This will last from 7:30 p.m. till 8:30 p.m., at which time a Hoe Down will begin. The public is invited.

Society 27

Farm Women Society 27 entertained Society 14 and county officers at a Fruit Salad Luncheon on July 27, at the Donegal Presbyterian Church, Mount Joy. Mrs. Mary Sarver led a historic tour of the church and surroundings. Present at the meeting were State Farm Women President, Lois Erb, county Farm Women officers, and 26 guests from Society 14. Hostesses were Mrs. Roy Wolgemuth, Sue Heineman, Mrs. Robert Dunkleberger, Mrs. Harold Gerber, Mrs. Wayne Miller and Mrs. Jay Nissley.

President Mrs. Roy Sauder conducted a short business meeting. Handpainted rocks were featured as favors depicting the historic Donegal Church. Devotions were led by Mrs. John Hershey.

Social Committee members Mrs. James Brubaker, Mrs. Robert Fellenbaum, and Mrs. John Nissley planned a home talent program with musical entertainment, games, and a skit. Participating as children of society members were: Tim and Tony Nissley and Cindy and Jodi Brubaker. Door prizes were donated by Society members and gifts were donated by the following local businesses: Agway, Longenecker's Hatchery, Pioneer Seed Company, Bell Telephone, and Hostetter's Hardware.

Quilts to be auctioned for 4-H Center

GATCHELLVILLE - A dozen quilts will go over the auction block on September 6, Labor Day, at Maple Lawn Farms as a fund raising project for the York County 4-H Center kitchen fund. The main contributors to the sale which will be held on the third day of "Peachilicious Weekend," will be various York County Society of Farm Women groups and 4-H clubs.

The quilts will be on display over the entire weekend until the time of the sale at 2 p.m. At this time, Blain Rentzel will conduct the unique auction.

One of the Bicentennial red-white-blues among the quilt patterns that will represent heirlooms for the future is "Americana" with red and blue cross stitching on a white background. This quilt was made by ladies from groups 1, 6, and 26, and won first place in the Bicentennial grouping at the East Berlin Senior Cititzens quilt show. "Bicentennial" patchwork will also go on sale. This quilt has an eagle in the center and was created by Group 26. Two other quilts are "Bicentennial" red and white stripe with a separate pillow cover, rendered by the Red Land Homemakers, and "Bicentennial" red, white, and blue combination of cross stitch and patchwork completed by Davidburg's 4-H Club.

Group 1, 6, and 26 have also designed "Granny Nine Patch" with old fashioned colors and pattern. Another old design "Trip Around the World" patchwork is being prepared by Group 25.

Donated by Group 1 is "Cathedral Window"; by Group 4, "Nine Patch"; by Group 8, "Ocean Wave"; and by Group 11, "Wreath Rose."

Craftsmen of all descriptions who include in their art a peach motif, part of the peach, or peach color or fragrance are also invited to show and sell their wares on any or all of the three-day Labor Day event. Community groups who can cook meat, dessert, and beverage treats using peaches should contact Maple Lawn Farms for details about how they can earn money for their organizations.

Berks DHIA MONTHLY REPORT

A Holstein cow named "Jody" represents the cream of the crop in Berks County's June DHIA program. Beginning her lactation at three years and nine months of age, she produced 23,497 pounds of milk and 902 of butterfat in 305 days. She is owned by Andrew Stoltzfus, who had six cows in his herd which produced more than 650 pounds of butterfat during the test period ended in June.

Workshop

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN - A workshop demonstrating the use of the pressure cooker in preserving food and meal preparation has been scheduled for 1:00 p.m. on August 4th at the Pottsville Mission. The demonstration time was originally set for 10:00 a.m. The public is invited to attend. The workshop is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of The Pennsylvania State University.

DAIRY HERD AND PROFITABILITY PROGRAMS

PURINA DAIRY CHOWS ®

Purina Dairy Research has developed three milking programs designed to fit varying economic conditions found on today's dairy farms. Obviously, the program best suited for a particular dairy operation depends on many factors but the most important factor by far is the type, quality and amount of roughage available to feed. The following programs were designed to fit these roughage considerations.

— Challenge or Lead Feeding Program. For areas where milk prices make heavier grain feeding more profitable even though roughages are the most economical source of nutrients.

— Feeding According to Production Program. For areas of low milk prices where roughages are the most economical source of nutrients.

— Limited Roughage Feeding Program. Follow this program when the milking ration is a more economical source of nutrients than available roughages. Milk price is not an important factor in considering this program.

Webster defines quality as grade, rank, degree of excellence, capacity, property, nature and a feature among other things, if we add control to this, quality control is then being able to control the grade, rank or nature or defining these to the extent of being able to utilize them for their exact worth.

You ask what is the difference between ingredient and Chow quality control. This ingredient quality control has to do with the nature of each individual component of a Chow. When these are all blended together into a Chow, then we may talk about items relative to Chow quality control. These may be particle size, uniformity in mixing, fat addition, or laboratory proximate analyses (protein, fat, fiber, etc.).

Production forecasted

WASHINGTON — Apple production is forecast at 6,100 million pounds, 14 percent below last year's record crop and six percent less than was utilized in 1974. Peach production is now forecast at 3,100 million pounds, off two percent from last month. Summer potato production is seen at 22.4 million hundredweight, seven percent above the 1975 crop.

Porkecue contest deadline extended

TIMONIUM - Sponsors of the Sixth Annual Porkecue Cook-Off Contest, scheduled for Friday, September 3, at the Maryland State Fair, here, have announced that the deadline for submission of recipes has been extended to Wednesday, August 4, by popular demand.

Presented by the Maryland Pork Producers Association, with the cooperation of the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the Porkecue Cook-Off features competition among 10 finalists, whose favorite recipes for a pork dish cooked outdoors, over a grill, have been selected as the best among the many submitted.

The finalists compete for five cash awards, ranging from $25 to $100. Also a Charmglow gas grill will be presented as a separate "Champion Chefing Award." Previous Porkecue winning dishes have utilized fresh ham, pork loin, spareribs and cured ham.

All entries should include a detailed recipe, listing all ingredients, contestant's name, address, and telephone number. Finalists will be notified by telephone on August 7.

The Cook-Off begins at 6:30 p.m., at the Fairgrounds. Contestants will prepare their dishes over a Charmglow gas grill.

The Porkecue has been one of the most popular events at the Maryland State Fair, attracting large audiences. The purpose of the contest is to promote the acceptance of modern pork products, which the public has found to be tasty, nutritious, and excellent for regular as well as reducing diets, according to the sponsors.

4-H Achievement days scheduled for August

UNIVERSITY PARK — Approximately 1,500 young adults representing the Commonwealth's 100,000 4-H members will convene on the Penn State main campus August 9-11 for the annual 4-H Achievement Days.

The event will feature scores of demonstrations by both teams and individuals who recently have won blue ribbons in county and regional competition.

Champion judging teams in the areas of dairy, entomology, vegetables, flower judging and identification, riflery, livestock, horse, poultry, archery, and meat identification will be selected. New this year will be a clothing judging contest.

Two other events, an automotive contest and tractor operator's contest, will test participants on their driving skills and knowledge of vehicle safety.

County horse bowl teams will compete, with the winners eligible to enter the Northeast Regional 4-H Horse Bowl at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition in Harrisburg.

Initiated seven years ago, "Consumerama" presentations will be geared to the teenage consumer. "Consumerama" consists of a series of three activities designed to help increase consumer competency. Activities include a consumer bowl game, planathon, and judging.

Also featured will be the state 4-H public speaking contest where regional winners will vie for a trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

Again this year, the State 4-H Dress Revue will be held in conjunction with 4-H Achievement Days. Thirty-five 4-H members, receiving regional honors in dress revues, will compete August 11 in four categories — school outfits, spectator or active sports, street attire, and formal and informal party dress. One winner from each category and four winners at large will be selected by professional judges and the participants. One of the eight top winners will represent Pennsylvania at National 4-H Congress.

Judging contests and educational demonstrations will be held throughout August 11 with awards being presented at an assembly program August 12 in the New University Auditorium.

USDA reference list offered

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service is offering a consumer reference list of over 200 popular meat and poultry products. The list briefly describes standards required of items federally inspected and specifies the amount of meat or poultry each product must contain.

To cite a few - meat pies and chili con carne with beans must have at least 25 per cent meat; a high meat dinner for babies must have 30 per cent meat (65 per cent for a meat and broth and broth baby food item); corned beef hash must have at least 35 per cent meat and no more than 15 per cent fat; condensed chicken soup must contain at least four per cent chicken meat; and Sloppy Joe sauces with meat are required to contain at least 35 per cent meat.

A copy of the complete Consumer Reference List may be obtained from: Information Division, APHIS, U. S. Department of Agriculture, 26 Federal Plaza (Room 1653), New York, N.Y. 10007.

Experts remind of noise and hand tool hazards

Saturday, July 31, marks the end of National Farm Safety Week, and two final reminders from the Pennsylvania State Extension Service are to watch noise and hand tool hazards.

LOUD NOISES CAN BE HAZARDOUS -

Noise is sometimes defined as "any unwanted sound." It is an annoying part of our everyday lives, yet it can prove useful: the blast of an automobile horn may warn of impending danger, or a persistent squeak may call attention to a machine in need of adjustment. But excessive noise serves no useful purpose, and it can cause permanent hearing loss if exposures repeatedly exceed safe limits, says Dennis J. Murphy, Extension safety specialist, The Pennsylvania State University.

Noise exposure limits are based on both the measured noise level and the duration of the exposure.

Only a trained and experienced person, using calibrated precision instruments, can determine with certainty whether or not these limits are being exceeded. The following rule-of-thumb may, however, be used as a rough guide: if you must raise your voice to be understood by a person three feet away, it is possible that your safe daily "noise dose" is being exceeded, says Murphy.

Voice exposures can be controlled by reducing noise levels, by interrupting or reducing the duration of exposure to high noise levels, and by wearing protective equipment such as ear muffs and ear plugs, adds Murphy.

HAND TOOL SAFETY URGED BY SPECIALIST

Simple hand tools contribute to a large percentage of work injuries. Nearly everyone has used these tools and is familiar with them. And that is the problem! Few people are trained in the proper use and in the selection of the proper tool for a specific job.

Some of the common rules for all hand tools are:

- Use the right tool for the job. Some examples of misuse of tools are using a wrench as a hammer, pliers as a wrench, and a claw hammer as a ball peen hammer.
- Keep tools in good condition. Broken or worn tools should be promptly repaired or discarded.
- Use tools in the way they were intended to be used. (e.g. users should cut away from the body when using knives, ground all electric tools, use only pry bars for prying, etc.).
- Keep tools in a safe place. Many accidents have been caused by tools falling from overhead, and by sharp tools carried in pockets.

A few of the more specific rules that apply to hand tools commonly found on farms and around most homes include:

- Never strike with the side of the hammer.
- Never strike one hammer with another.
- Don't use chisels with mushroomed heads and dull cutting edges (edges can be sharpened).

Holstein day scheduled

ELVERSON - The Chester County Holstein Club will hold its annual Field Day on Tuesday, August 3, at the Jefferson Yoder Farm, located one mile east of here on the corner of routes 23 and 345.

Judging will start at 10:00 a.m. with Pete Blodgett of Carnation Genetics as official judge.

Tickets for the noon meal, featuring barbecue chicken, are priced at $2.50 for adults, and $1.50 for children.

Any boy or girl between the ages of eight and 15 associated with farming in Chester County may sign up for a registered Holstein calf to be given away.

Bring your own lawn chairs. Swimming will be available following the afternoon program.

Kindly make reservations with one of the following directors by Saturday July 31: Jeff Yoder 286-5362; Art Hershey 593-6565; Harold Bare 593-6577; Bob Apple 932-3975.

New members welcomed into Virginville Grange

VIRGINVILLE - The Virginville Grange met on July 21 with Karl and Dorothy Geisler, Ronald Keiffer, Brenda Miller, and Bruce and Betty Fegley welcomed as new members.

The social committee will serve on Aug. 1 at the household sale at Virginville, and on Sept. 11 at the Lion's Club in Virginville. The chairlady of the women's group thanked all who helped at the Folk Festival and trucking and sandwich sale.

The group will now serve at the Badalia days at Shartlesville on Aug. 5, 6, 7, and 8. The needlework entrants will be judged at the Grange Hall on Aug. 28. Master Feryl Treichler thanked all who helped at the Folk Festival.

The youth will meet on Aug. 2 at the hall. More help is needed to make the Italian sandwiches for the Oct. 2 drill team elimination at Kutztown.

The softball team reported they won 16-2 against Womelsdorf, 21-7 against Centerport, 10-6 against Bethany, and 15-2 against Ontelaunee.

Christene Adam was honored as second runner-up in the dairy princess contesyt.

The Grange will have their outing at Shoemakersville.

The next meeting will begin with a ball game on Aug. 4. Then, on Aug. 18, election of officers will be held. Sept. 1 is the date of the talent contest.

Serving at Zion's Church as acolyte was Dean Keller; as greeters, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Adam and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Luckenbill; and as nursery attendants Dawn and Brenda Miller.

The flowers in the altar vases were presented to the glory of God and in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Carl Miller by her son, Jeffrey and Michelle Gladney.

The young people are planning to serve refreshments at a sale in Shoemakersville on Aug. 6.

Milk channels disclosed

SCHUYKILL HAVEN - Figures, made available by the Schuylkill County Agricultural Extension Service, throw light on the marketing channels used by local farmers in selling milk.

There are approximately 75 farmers marketing milk in the county. Of this number, 24 are marketing milk to plants regulated under Federal milk marketing orders. The remaining 51 producers are selling milk to dairy plants that are regulated by the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board.

County Agent, David L. Kantner, indicates that Federal Milk marketing orders are increasingly more important in regulating prices paid to Pennsylvania farmers for milk.

Federal orders affecting Pennsylvania producers are the Mid-Atlantic essentially regulating the Philadelphia, Southern New Jersey, Baltimore, and Washington markets, and the New York-New Jersey Order covering major markets in New York State and Northern New Jersey, and the Eastern Ohio-Western Pennsylvania market which covers the western part of the state.

About 16 farmers in the county ship to plants regulated under the New York-New Jersey Order, eight ship to Mid-Atlantic Order plants.

Finland

Finland is one of the world's northernmost countries and straddles the Arctic Circle It's about the size of Minnesota and Mississippi combined More than 55,000 lakes are linked by rivers throughout the country Finland's most abundant resource is the forests of spruce, pine, birch and aspen that cover more than half of the nation's 130,119 — square-mile area

Raising Salmon

Several commercial and sport fisherman's groups are trying to increase salmon numbers in the ocean and local streams by raising large numbers of fish at several sites along the northern California coast More than 400,000 silver salmon are being raised in five locations there and the efforts could expand to include several million fish annually

Seipt joins Holstein board

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Donald V. Seipt, Holstein dairyman from Easton, Pa., has been elected to serve a four-year term on the Holstein - Friesian Association of America board of directors. Seipt's appointment to the 16-man board was made by delegates at the Association's 91st annual convention in Philadelphia on June 30 and July 1.

A native of Pennsylvania, Seipt is owner and operator of Keystone Farm near Easton. The registered Holstein herd, of 150 head, is recognized for its outstanding quality and has earned its owner the Progressive Breeders Registry award for 18 years. A son Donald A., recently graduated from Cornell University and is helping on the farm now.

Born in Lansdale, Pa., Seipt earned a bachelor of science degree in dairy science from Penn State University. He and his wife both did agriculture extension work before coming to Keystone Farm (Mrs. Seipt's home) 26 years ago.

Active in industry organizations, Seipt just completed a term as president of the National Dairy Shrine Club. He is currently president of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association and earlier served on its board and executive committee.

Seipt is past chairman of the Pennsylvania Purebred Dairy Cattle Association and a former director of the state DHI association. An accredited judge of Holstein cattle, he has judged numerous local shows as well as state and national shows.

Seipt and his wife Geraldine have three children.

As a member of the board of HFAA, Seipt will serve in an advisory capacity for programs and services of Holstein - Friesian Association of America, the world's largest dairy cattle registry organization with more than 27,000 members.

Political Zoo

Without permission from either, donkey and elephant were made over into the image of Democrats and Republicans by Thomas Nast He was the "father" of the modern political cartoon, slashing out clever caricatures with venom in the last half of the 19th century The Democratic donkey first appeared in a Nast cartoon in 1870 while the Republican elephant appeared originally in 1874

Lancaster Co. FFA picnic held

The annual Lancaster County FFA picnic was held on Sunday, July 25, at the Manheim Central High School. The noon meal, consisting of barbecued chicken, baked beans, cupcakes, and drink, was served at 1:30 p.m. After the meal, the various FFA chapters participated in the annual softball tournament. The adults spent an enjoyable afternoon getting acquainted and playing volleyball. By four o'clock most of the 135 people had gone home except for the Lampeter - Strasburg and the Manheim Central chapters. These two softball teams were playing the final game of the tournament which ended with Lampeter - Strasburg earning first place.

Poultry increasing

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania's poultry production continued to increase during the week ending July 17, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service. The 1,631,000 placements of broiler chicks were 23 per cent above the same week a year ago and four per cent above the previous week.

Average placements during the past ten weeks were 20 per cent over the same period in 1975.

Placements of broiler chicks in the 21 key poultry states were 62,646,000. This figure is seven per cent above the same week a year earlier, but five per cent below the previous week.

Computer disease forecasting at Ag Progress Days

ROCK SPRINGS p Use of a computer to forecast the occurrence of tomato early blight, the chief defoliation disease of tomatoes in the northeastern states, will be among the research described during Ag Progress Days August 25 and 26 at the Agricultural Research Center of The Pennsylvania State University.

Such plant disease experiments will be among the countless features on hand August 25 and 26. The 1525 acre research farm of Penn State is located nine miles west of the campus on route 45.

The goal of computer forecasting of tomato early blight is to spray only when conditions warrant it, stated Dr. S. P. Pennypacker and Dr. A. A. MacNab, plant pathologists with the Agricultural Experiment Station. Efficient and economical spraying with fungicides is made possible through such experiments, they added.

During Ag Progress Days the Penn State scientists will described studies underway to improve computerized tomato blight forecasting, to use fewer sprayers but to provide disease control equal to the typical seven to 10 day intervals used commonly today. Tomato early blight can reduce yields by 30 to 40 per cent.

Elsewhere, Ag Progress Days visitors will see corn-like rows of hybrid poplar trees producing wood for the pulpwood industry. A chipping demonstration, harvesting pulpwood from these hybrid poplars, will be featured August 25 and 26.

Bowersox indicated visitors to Ag Progress Days might consider growing corn-like plantings of hybrid poplars on land unsuited for row crops. He said such corn-row woodpulp plantations are superior to typical pulpwood forests for less investment time, the potential for mechanized harvesting, and high yields.

At the Agronomy Research Farm, demonstration plots will compare old and new varieties of poatoes, as well as old and new cultural practices. The plots will also compare treatments using cultivation only, cultivation plus fertilizer or manure, and cultivation plus fertilizer and chemical pest controls. In charge of these plots is Dr. Milford R. Heddleson, coordinator of environmental quality affairs in the College of Agriculture.

Ag Progress Days of August 25 and 26 is funded partially by a grant from the Bicentennial Commission of Pennsylvania.

Tri-state Futurity set

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va. - The 15th running of the $25,000-added Tri-State Futurity will be at the Charles Town Races on Friday, September 17. Of the 513 nominees, 112 made the final eligibility payment in June. If 10 start, the purse will gross over $62,000.

The race is for 2-year-olds bred in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia and will be run at seven furlongs.

A $25 nomination fee was made for each mare in December of 1973 with eligibility payments of $50 and $75 made in March and June of 1976 to keep the two-year-olds eligible for this year's edition of the richest race in West Virginia.

The purse is expected to pass the $60,000 mark for the fourth time in the past five years and the winner will take home more than $50,000.

Apples not for sheep

BELTSVILLE, Md. - Sheepmen are cautioned against using a combination of apple pomace (the leftovers from making cider) and a non-protein nitrogen source as feed for sheep. This combination results in poor feed intake and in ewes giving birth to deformed lambs, says Dr. Theron S. Rumsey, an animal scientist with USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

Dr. Rumsey and research chemist Ivan L. Lindahl, conducted feeding experiments at the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center, here, in which they fed sheep three different dietary regimens containing apple pomace.

Rumsey found that diets containing apple pomace and urea caused an increased ruminal liquid washout rate. This washout may reduce the efficiency with which urea is converted to protein nitrogen by ruminal microbes, resulting in a protein deficiency.

Maryland horse law toughened

ANNAPOLIS, Md. - On July 1, a new amendment to Maryland's Equine Infectious Anemia (also called EIA or Swamp Fever) regulations became effective. It requires that horses whose ownership changes shall have been tested negative for EIA within 12 months prior to sale or exchange.

Dr. Hugh E. Binks, chief of the Animal Health Section, Maryland Department of Agriculture, who administers the EIA control program, says state regulations require that the owner's copy of the test chart be presented at the time of sale. Photo copy of the test chart is not acceptable, unless previously validated by MDA's Animal Health Section.

Horses destined for slaughter are exempt from the EIA test, but this class of animal must be purchased by a slaughter establishment, renderer, or a Maryland licensed livestock dealer. Change in classification may be accomplished by appropriate testing of the animal while in the dealer's possession.

Maryland licensed livestock dealers who plan to assemble slaughter horses prior to transporting to an approved market must have their facilities inspected and approved by MDA in advance.

Slaughter horses presented at a market for sale must be identified with a green paint "S" brand, measuring at least 12 inches both dimensions and applied on the left rib area.

A serially numbered backtag must be applied to the rear of the paint brand.

On-the-farm purchases of slaughter horses by a licensed dealer will require only the paint brand, which is to be applied prior to loading.

While the incidence of EIA in Maryland is relatively low, the disease is incurable and can be transmitted from one animal to another by mosquitoes, horse flies and other means. Equines found to be EIA-infected must carry a permanent EIA brand and be quarantined for life.

Because the disease poses such a threat to healthy animals, many horse owners elect to put EIA-infected animals down rather than risk spreading the disease.

State Grange chooses prince, princess

HARRISBURG - John H. Keith, 20, of Entriken, Huntingdon County, and Anna May Snyder 19, of 126 S. 17th St., Camp Hill, have been named the 1976-1977 prince and princess of the Pennsylvania State Grange.

In addition to representing the State Grange at youth activities in Pennsylvania, the two will be eligible to compete for national prince and princess honors at the National Grange convention in North Carolina in 1977.

Keith, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Keith, is a senior at Pennsylvania State University where he is majoring in dairy science. He is a member of Lincoln Grange in Huntingdon County and serves as chairman of the finance and youth committees.

Miss Snyder, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Luther Snyder, is a junior at the Pennsylvania State University Middletown Campus majoring in accounting. She is a member of Valley Grange, Lewisberry, and serves there as lecturer. She also is the lady assistant steward and youth chairman in the York-Adams County Pomona Grange.

They succeed Fred Rudy of Sewickley R4 and Barbara Harrison, of West Chester, who will compete for national prince and princess honors at the National Grange convention at Atlantic City in November.

Junior Grangers also selected a prince and princess to represent the five-to-fourteen-year age group for 1976-77. The honors were won by two Lehigh countians - John H. Shankweiler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shankweiler, Schnecksville R2, and Susan M. Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Young, Schnecksville R1.

Shankweiler is a member of Schnecksville Junior Grange and a ninth grade student at Troexell Junior High School. Miss Young, also a member of Schnecksville Junior Grange, is in the tenth grade at Parkland Senior High School.

They succeed James L. Snyder, of Camp Hill, and Stephanie Merkel, of Kutztown R3.

The state prince and princess and the junior prince and princess were selected at the annual Grange youth and junior camp sessions held at Spruce Creek, Huntingdon County

PURINA BIO-4 POULTRY CHOWS

THE NEW SCIENTIFIC FEEDING PROGRAM FOR EGG PRODUCERS AND PULLET GROWERS.

PURINA CHOWS

WHAT IS BIO-4

Bio-4 Poultry Chows are feeds which utilize newly developed values for four critical nutrient areas: No. 1 - Amino Acids, No. 2 - Energy, No. 3 - Minerals, No. 4 - Vitamins. New biological feed values were developed after seven years of research test feeding.

PURINA CHOWS

HOW TO FEED

BIO-4 SAVES FEED COSTS — YOU FEED ONLY WHAT YOUR BIRDS NEED.

FEED INTAKE lbs./100 hens/day	BIO-4 CHOW TO FEED
OVER 25.0	Bio-100
23.4 TO 25.0	Bio-107
21.7 TO 23.3	Bio-114
20.0 TO 21.6	Bio-121
UNDER 20.0	Bio-128

Starting with Bio-100, each Bio Chow contains 7% more fortification.

PURINA CHOWS

MORE PROFIT $$$

Bio-4 Poultry Chows mean more profit for you!! A key economic effect of Bio-4 Chow is an improvement in feed conversion. This improvement is a result of Bio-4's higher nutrient density. Based on Purina Research, you should see a decrease in feed intake of 0.1 lb. per dozen eggs. The value of this decrease for a 40,000 bird house exceeds $5000 per cycle.
